THE PHOTOGRAPHER'S POINT OF VIEW

STUDIES HAVE A UNIVERSAL APPROPRIATENESS

Studies have a universal appropriateness, as Cicero tells us. Young and old, rich and poor, can find contentment and inspiration in them. In times of well-being they add beauty and happiness to our living; in times of adversity we find a refuge and a solace in their companionship. There is no time, nor place, nor age, nor state of mind to which our learning is not either an ornament or an encouragement.

In a desire to recognize the ever increasing manifestation of these opinions, the Techite of 1938 wishes to do honor to the young people who have, in full realization of the bountifulness of their rewards, penetrated as far as high school can lead them into the richness of scholarship.

Do you remember when you first learned that Tech had a greenhouse?—We do. We remember how thrilled we were at the idea. A whole greenhouse, with glass walls and roof, full of sunshine and a warm earthy smell. It made us feel that Tech was really a marvelous school.

For we were fresh from junior high school; we had not anticipated such an utterly new world. The greenhouse was the culmination of the new sights and the new equipment that had been disclosed to us that first day. It gave Tech a dignity which carried it for all time beyond our wildest dreams of the fullness of high school life. Nothing, save the discovery of the organ, ever equaled the feelings of mixed pride and joy and awe which we felt for this high school that had a greenhouse of its very own.

In the Greenhouse

Tech's faculty, headed by Mr. Frank C. Daniel, principal, and Miss Jessie Coope and Mr. A. M. Vliet, assistant principals, have the sincere appreciation of the graduating class for their loyal friendship, ever-helpful instruction, and patient guidance throughout our high school days. It is through their efforts and cooperation during past years that McKinley today is able to offer the fine courses in academic, commercial, and technical subjects.

Tech was first organized in 1898 by Mr. Koyl, a physics teacher at Central, when he and a group of boys interested in constructing things with tools met in the basement of old Central High School at Seventh and O Streets, N. W. The class grew until more room was needed, and Mr. Chamberlin, the new director of Manual Training in the District of Columbia, was appointed by the Board of Education to help them organize a school of their own. The McKinley Manual Training High School was thus founded in 1902 at Seventh Street and Rhode Island Avenue, N. W., with about 454 pupils and 22 teachers. It was not until 1928 that our present building was completed. The enrollment has continued to increase until today there are approximately 2464 students and 90 members of the faculty.

CERTAIN ART IN Teaching IT."

The English Department, having the largest staff of teachers in the building, is under the supervision of Miss Watkins. They are: MISS L. P. BAILEY, MISS S. BRETT, MR. R. D. BRINKER, MISS L. CARPENTER, MISS H. C. DERRICK, MISS E. FOSTER, MRS. J. C. FRANKLIN, MRS. A. M. FRAZIER, MRS. E. B. FROST, MISS L. KINGSLEY, MISS M. H. SELAH, MISS L. J. SMITH, MISS L. E. STEWART, MISS R. WATKINS, and MISS V. J. WILLIS.

Pupils are required to take English during their full three years at Tech. After the fifth semester, the English course is divided into college preparatory and practical courses. College English VI, VII, and VIII are open to group one pupils only, and are studies of English literature. Practical English, Oral English, and Modern Literature constitute the regular English course which is recommended to pupils not planning to go to college. Journalism, Speech, and Grammar are electives open to group one pupils and may be taken in addition to, but not as substitutes for, the above required courses.

The Mathematics Department is composed of MISS B. BIRTWELL, head teacher; MISS I. HAMMOND, MR. C. R. CLARK, MISS C. V. McCAMMAN, MRS. F. S. MITCHELL, and MR. H. F. MITCHELL.

Mathematics is a test and training in clear, logical, accurate thinking. It is of such fundamental importance in engineering, and in almost all physical sciences, that it is a necessary preparation for a career in these fields.

The course is composed of Algebra, Geometry, Trigonometry, Surveying, and Analytics. One or more years are required of students entering college.

MISS G. S. DONNALLY, MRS. E. P. DUNN, MISS A. E. WHITENER, MISS A. J. FAIRBANKS, MISS E. M. LUERS, MR. H. B. SANDERS, MR. E. L. VAIL, MISS M. S. POOLE, MISS C. E. CHALLICE, MISS G. L. MARSH, and MRS. M. E. MARTIN make up the History Department. Miss Challice heads this staff. American History is the one required subject in this course. Other History electives are: Modern European History, World Geography, National and World Problems, Sociology, Economics, and Business Law. These subjects are intended to make students of Tech better fitted to be the future citizens and leaders of America. They become acquainted with important world events of the past and present. In this way they are able to learn from the experiences of past generations, and so be better prepared to face future problems.

Language

Columns and Magnolias

MRS. D. F. EDGERTON, Spanish; MR. C. A. BLUME, Latin and French; MRS. C. A. WEST, Spanish; MRS. U. L. FITZGERALD, French; MRS. E. H. CHAMBLISS, French; and MRS. A. H. COE, Latin, belong to the Language Department.

The first four semesters of French and Spanish are chiefly a study of grammar and conversation. The advanced classes read and discuss the literature of the language which they are studying.

The Latin students have a year of grammar, and devote the other three years to translation. This includes Caesar's description of his wars in Gaul; Cicero's speeches against Cataline, in defence of Archias, his orations in favor of the Manilian Law; and the first six books of Virgil's "Aeneid."

The Science Department has three divisions: Physics, Chemistry, and Biology. A year of any one of these is required of all graduates from McKinley. All have excellent laboratories and equipment, and give interested students a good background in the field of Science.

The Physics Department is made up of MR. J. W. ADAMS, head, and MR. G. M. KOEHL.

MR. E. H. KREHBIEL and MR. F. ROLSTON belong to the Chemistry Department headed by MR. A. J. MARSH.

MR. A. MEIER, MRS. R. M. NELSON, DR. V. MILLSAPS, and MR. S. STRAUSS constitute the Biology Department. Mr. Strauss is in charge.

The Commercial Department is under the direction of MR. G. F. WALTZ, with MR. S. W. PURSELL, MISS E. C. MORROW, MRS. I. B. KREY, MISS L. M. CHAPMAN, MISS L. COATES, MRS. L. M. SIMS, MISS N. J. OVERHULSER, MR. H. F. KEYSER, MRS. S. F. BRISKER, MR. W. E. BARKMAN, and MISS S. J. DAUPHIN as instructors. The elective subjects are: Commercial Arithmetic, Bookkeeping, Typing, Shorthand, Transcription, Secretarial Training, Office Training, Salesmanship, Banking, and the Secretarial Pool.

MR. B. T. ANDERSON, Print Shop; MR. H. L. BENNER, Mechanical Drawing; MR. L. T. BROWN, Pattern Shop; MR. S. W. EDWARDS, Print Shop; MR. J. M. HARRISON, Electric Shop; MR. D. C. JACKSON, Auto Shop; MR. F. A. MIDDLETON, Electric Shop; MR. H. P. NOBLE, Mechanical Drawing; MR. A. B. PIGGOTT, Mould Shop; MR. C. W. RIPPEY, Mechanical Drawing; MR. O. SAUGSTAD, Art Metal; MR. F. A. SCHUTTE, Machine Shop; MR. R. S. WILLIAMS, Cabinet Shop; and MR. A. J. WONDRACK, Machine Shop, constitute the Shop teachers, headed by Mr. Brown. This department, together with the Home Economics, is regarded as the best of its kind in the city's public high schools. Many Tech boys, and even a few girls, benefit by their work in these classes.

The Home Economics Department consisted of three teachers: MRS. E. K. GUMMER, MISS L. KNOX, and MRS. O. P. RUSH. In February Mrs. Rush became head of the Home Economics division of the city. MISS E. J. LAW and MISS D. M. SMITH were then added to the Home Economics staff. Mrs. Gummer succeeded Mrs. Rush as head teacher.

The Physical Training Department has a staff of five instructors: MRS. E. R. JAMES, MRS. E. N. DANIEL, MR. E. P. HARDELL, MR. W. D. THOMPSON, and MR. B. KESSLER. The heads of the girls' and boys' Gym classes are Mrs. Daniel and Mr. Thompson respectively.

The girls' sports, under the supervision of Mrs. Daniel and Mrs. James, are confined to competition within their respective classes, while the boys, taught by Mr. Thompson, Mr. Kessler, and Mr. Hardell, take part in inter-high games.

Nooks and crannies we won't forget

The Art course is taught by MR. J. E. LAMB, and MRS. E. D. SAUGSTAD. It is divided into Art Structure, Drawing and Painting, Commercial and Graphic Arts, and Art Appreciation.

Music, also, plays an important part in the life of Techites. Major Music, Orchestra, and Band are offered them under the instruction of MR. H. NICODEMUS, MRS. B. B. THOMPSON, and MR. D. WALTEN. MR. L. MALKUS was instructor of the Orchestra and Band this year during the absence of Mr. Walten.

MRS. C. SHUMANN, matron, is in charge of the Emergency Room. Students are sent to her for treatment whenever they become ill. She also takes care of lost and found articles.

MISS J. GRADY is librarian. She has a staff of students under her supervision who help with the work and get valuable experience.

MRS. L. C. TURNER, head of the Office Staff, with her assistants, MISS D. STETSON, MRS. C. B. WOOD, and a group of students, takes care of the school records and other official business.

MRS. MARTIN receives tardy students each morning in Mr. Vliet's office.

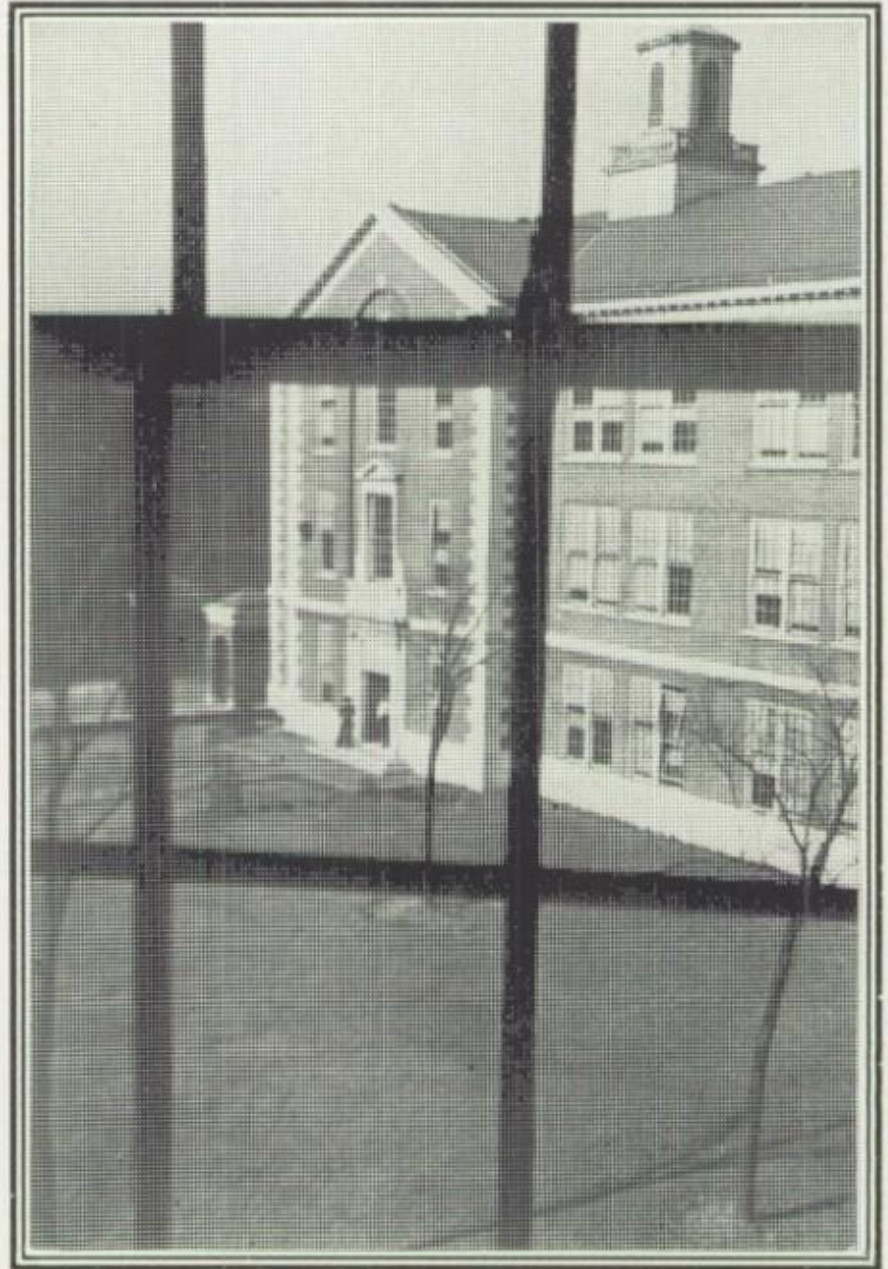

Jane Grady.

The school staff and members of the faculty have many duties in addition to instructing the students. The committees on which the teachers serve are: College Committee, Program Committee, and Military Committee. Auditing senior records, supervising I. Q. tests, and advising the school's clubs, sororities, and fraternities are among other duties performed by the teaching staff. The Employment Bureau, Book Exchange, Bank, Lockers, Tech Relief, Tech Patrol, Cheer Leaders, Sports, G. O., TECH LIFE, TECHITE, graduations, assemblies, semi-annual dramatic presentations, study halls, and sections are all under the supervision of the faculty. Several thousands of dollars pass through the hands of the school treasurer each year. These outside duties often equal or over-balance the work of teaching.

Class Leaders

Johnny Hunter

IT IS AN HONOR TO BE CHOSEN

AN OFFICER

of the Graduating Class

Without leadership a crowd becomes a mob. With 743 members enrolled in the graduating classes, efficient direction was essential to avoid confusion. The senior class of June 1938 had capable leaders. After more than one day of balloting William Zeller was chosen president. The vice president was William Holbrook. The only girl to be elected to an office was Madeline Bawell, the secretary. For treasurer, the class named Thomas Hunter. The office of sergeant-at-arms was closely contested, but Daniel McNally finally won. Mrs. Eda B. Frost, the faculty adviser of the June class, was able to counsel the class, and its leaders, so that the details of graduation were always worked out in a harmonious manner.

At the time of this writing the February class officers have not been chosen, but their work will be under the guidance of Mrs. A. Frazier, their faculty adviser.

The chief duties of the president are to preside at the class meetings and graduation exercises. He also appoints, with the aid of the adviser, the members of the various committees. Besides serving as chairman of committees the vice president must preside if the president is not able to attend. The secretary keeps the minutes of the meetings and takes care of the class correspondence. The treasurer has charge of the finances, a responsible and difficult job. The sergeant-at-arms sees that order is maintained at all meetings of the class and informs the committees of meetings; with the faculty adviser he arranges for janitor service, lights, seating, and the general comfort of the class members at all meetings.

Without a purpose leadership is aimless. To prepare and carry out in an orderly and dignified manner the exercises incident to graduation is work to test the leadership of these students, because the activities attendant upon graduation are student activities. The teachers are concerned, naturally, with the actual completion of credit and the bestowal of diplomas. The students chosen have been worthy of the trust placed in them.

The Memorial

This marble tablet of colonial design bearing Tech's Roll of Honor was planned by Mr. Alexis Many to be placed in the Memorial Room in memory of those of Tech who gave their lives in the World War. It was dedicated on November 10, 1933, with one of the most impressive assemblies ever presented by students. With Mr. Many's death last December this tablet takes on an additional meaning in its perpetuation of the memory of a man to whom all Techites will be forever grateful for the atmosphere of beauty which was his gift to the school.

IT IS AN HONOR TO BE NUMBERED AMONG

Tech's Alumni

Since Tech moved into a building of its own back in 1902 many changes have taken place. In 1907 Tech's first yearbook was called the "Retrospect." This book recorded the activities of the graduating class only. The next book to be published was the "Maroon and Gray." This was changed in 1915 to "The Tech Life Year Book," and in 1921 it received the present title, the "Techite." Fewer than one hundred graduates received diplomas each June up to about the time of the World War. This year 743 have been enrolled in the graduating classes of June 1938 and February 1939. These 743 have been awarded their diplomas for studies more nearly in accord with their own likes than were the credits obtained by the older graduates, for the older graduates were permitted only one elective while today the elective studies number eighteen. The English requirements have remained the same throughout the years, but those for mathematics and history have dropped from four to one year's work. The two years of language, two years of physics, and the three in shop, formerly required, have been abandoned. Thirty-two semester hours of work have always been and, still are, required for graduation.

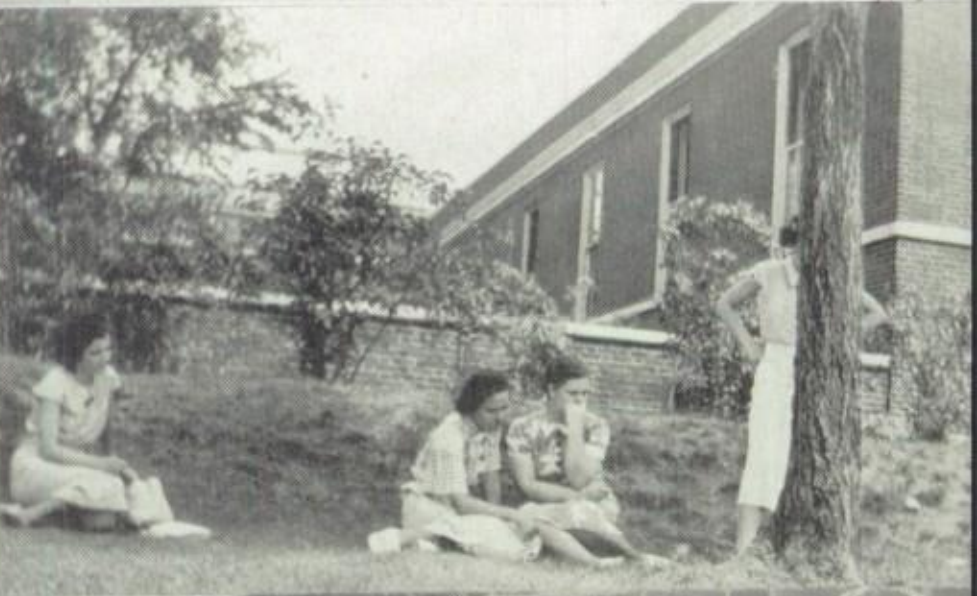

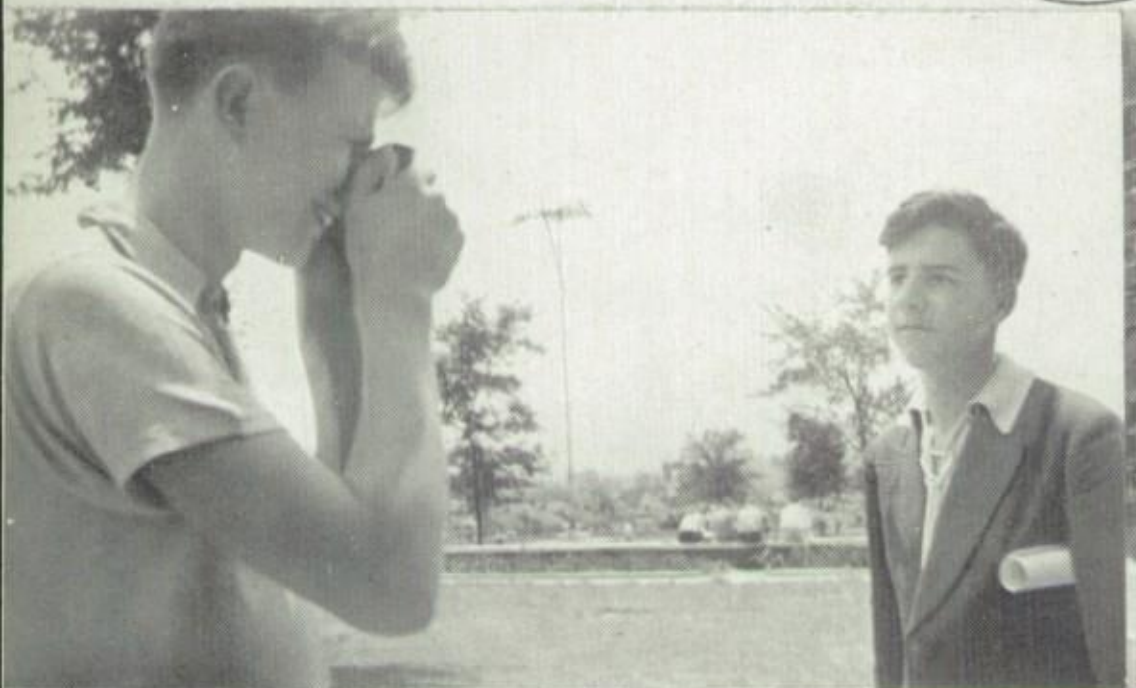

It is an honor to have graduated from Tech, an honor that will remain with the Tech graduate forever. Many of the students who graduated so long ago have distinguished themselves in the world. Many became successful in their chosen careers. Dr. William Seifriz, scientist of the University of Pennsylvania, graduated from Tech before the World War but in January 1938 he could still write of Tech: "I often think of high school days with genuine affection . . . I got more and better mathematics, physics, and chemistry there than in college. To this day certain facts are traceable directly to my high school education, for example, hysteresis in electro-dynamics, which I have not heard about since; and as we have hysteresis in colloidal gels, the two terms immediately made me analyze both situations more carefully than I otherwise would have done."

Tech's graduates are today carrying Tech's traditions of high undertaking and outstanding achievement around the world . . . from Edward Sheiry, teaching at Robert College in Istanbul, Turkey; to Lenox Lohr, President of the National Broadcasting Company; to Mildred Hall, secretary to Mrs. Herbert Hoover when she was in the White House; to Granville Gude, Olive Adams, and Mark Lansburgh here in Washington; back home to our own walls were Miss Stewart, Mrs. Gummer, Miss Dorothy Smith, Mr. Brown, Mr. Piggott, Mr. Williams, Mr. Krehbiel, Mr. Hardell, Mr. Wondrack, and Mr. Middleton fill the student with the same enthusiasm for high standards of scholarship and endeavor that they learned as students of Tech. Of this year's class 371 students plan to enter college; 171 are going to work; 201 have not as yet decided on any course of action. It is our sincere wish that the classes of 1938 and 1939 will ever be a credit and a source of pride to McKinley High School.

FACULTY GUIDES

Mr. Williams

Miss Whitener

Mr. Strauss

The General Organization, Tech's student governing body, was formed in 1914. It consists of two houses. The lower house, which is similar to the House of Representatives, is composed of all section presidents; the upper house, comparable to the Senate, consists of members selected by the student body. This organization has charge of all school activities: clubs, sports, and dances. The G. O. upper house consists of a president, vice president, and secretary, chosen by the student body, and one or two representatives, chosen from each semester by their respective semester members. These students serve in their offices for a year, with the exception of the president and the eighth semester representative whose terms last for one semester only. There are exactly seventeen major offices under the G. O. besides the president, vice president, and secretary. The Colonel of Cadets, when he is from Tech; the Lieutenant Colonel of Cadets, Richard Weiss; the Majors of Cadets, John Abbadessa and Max Goldberg; the Captains of Cadets, Vernon Williams, Burke Wright, Joseph Parker, Charles Parker, and Walter Burns; Manager of Football, Howard Gossage; Manager of Baseball, Clytus Freeman; Manager of Track, Elvin Brincefield; Editor of TECH LIFE, Maxine Gordon; Business Manager of TECH LIFE, Elsie Mae Turner; Editor of the Year Book, Elise Fisher; Business Manager of the Year Book, Lester Carrick; Treasurer of the Graduating Class, Thomas Hunter; President of the Graduating Class, William Zeller; Presidents of the Glee Clubs, Olive Jane Miller and David Rabenhorst; President of the Opera Club (to be elected); and President of the Dramatic Club, William Zeller; all of these are officers of the G. O.

When the president graduates in June the vice president, automatically, becomes president. The officers and representatives of the G. O. for the semester, September to February, 1937-1938, were as follows: President, Harold Welch; Vice President, James Hardey; Secretary, Mary Shonk; Eighth Semester Representative, James Hardey; Seventh Semester Representatives, Madeline Bawell and William Holbrook; Sixth Semester Representative, Edla Thomas; Fifth Semester Representatives, Doris Wood and Howard Beard; Fourth Semester Representative, Robert Walsh; Third Semester Representatives, Elaine Glorius and Thornton Sykes.

The members of the lower house for September to February were: A8—Jennie MacLeish; B8—Lillian Carleton; C8—Lester Thomas; D8—Jack Belote; A7—Doris Cornell; B7—Marie Goo On; C7—Lorraine Rogers; D7—Erma Meegan; E7—Helen Farr; F7—William Emshwiller; G7—Robert Moseley; H7—Jack West; I7—William S. Honors

school and class activities.

QUILL AND SCROLL . . . Excellence and superiority in writing for school publications.

Honors are awarded to those who attain scholarship and a worthy place in school work and life.

The McKinley High School chapter of the National Honor Society of Secondary Schools is known to us as the Pharos. Its purpose is to create an enthusiasm for scholarship, to stimulate a desire to render service, to promote leadership, and to develop character in the students of American high schools.

The first chapter was organized in Cicero, Illinois, a small town south of Chicago, which is now the headquarters for the society. There are more than 30,000 chapters throughout the United States, and, in Washington, there are three chapters.

The Pharos admits from twenty to forty members each semester and has admitted as many as fifty. There have always been more boys than girls in our chapter due to the fact that Tech was originally a boys' school. The officers of the Pharos from September to February, 1937-1938, were James Hardey, President; Joseph Parker, Vice President; Allene Dietz, Secretary; William Zeller, Treasurer; and Benjamin Lynt, Sergeant-at-Arms. The other members were Elise Fisher, Charles Haynes, Kenneth Meyers, Mary Meyers, Dorothy Mills, Bebe Linder, Daniel McNally, Lucy McNeely, Lavon Ockershausen, Charles Parker, Roberta Shirkey, Mary Shonk, Marjorie Stockett, Xie Storey, Elsie Mae Turner, Harold Welch, Burke Wright, Max Goldberg, Madeline Bawell, Adelaide Herman, Richard Weiss, Maxine Gordon, Doris Black, Robert Close, James Anderson, Granville Brumbaugh, Marie Goo On, Miriam Gross, Walter Burns, Richard Ervin, Antoinette Bruno, and George Cornell.

The officers from February to June were the same with the exception of the president in whose place Benjamin Lynt was elected. The new members whose names appeared on the screen in January were Josephine Stafford, Betty Jones, John Mvlroie, Doris Graham, Lauretta McCusker, Helen Farr, Milton Cole, Thomas Hunter, Ruth Hansch, Ida Mary Lewis, Dorothy Mennen, June Darling, Gordon Poole, Robert Nordby, David Rabenhorst, Theodore Vial, George Filgate, Albert Jones, Loretta Krumm, Louise Marsh, Marion May, John Abbadessa, Dora Green, Margaret Haetler, Harry Newby, Mary Martin, Robert Searls, William Powers, Bessie Coleman, Mary Frances Flemer, Erma Meegan, Hubert Augstein, Elvin Brincefield, Edla Thomas, Carolyn Hotis, Bernard Graham, Zeb Hamilton, Grace Maqista, Genelen Flynn, Lloyd Street, Mariam Boeglen, and Robert Bierly. Mrs. Frost was the faculty adviser.

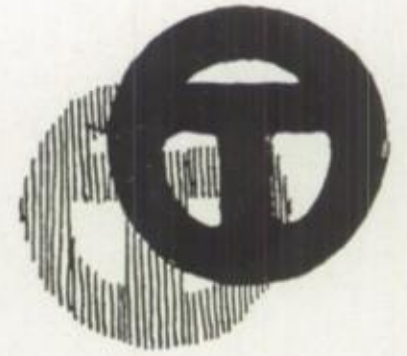

The Quill and Scroll is an international honorary journalistic society. Its object is to promote interest in writing for the school publications. Candidates must have had a certain amount of material published. The officers of the Quill and Scroll were Gino Valenti, an alumnus, President; Robert Curtin, an alumnus, Vice President; Elsie Mae Turner, Secretary; Richard Weiss, Treasurer. The other members were Elise Fisher, Maxine Gordon, Xie Storey, and Burke Wright. The faculty adviser was Mr. Brinker. Staff members of TECH LIFE and the TECHITE were eligible in the spring.

CIRCLE T • DIAMOND T • CLUBS

The Circle T Club is an organization for Tech athletes who have won their letter in any of the four major sports of our school, namely; football, baseball, track, and basketball.

The letter for football may be awarded to the player who has participated in three-fifths of all quarters that Tech played in the Inter-high School Series; or, for being manager of the team.

The baseball letter is awarded for participation in three-fifths of all innings that Tech plays in the Inter-high School Series; or, for being manager.

In track the Circle T may be given for a total of five points in the Inter-high School Spring Track Meet; or, for earning three points in the Inter-high Meet and a total of seven points in open meets during the whole season; and, for being track manager.

A basketball letter may be presented to a player who has played three-fifths of all quarters of the Inter-high Series; or, for serving as manager of the team.

Before the athlete receives his emblem his eligibility must be passed on by the coach, the director of athletics, the principal, the faculty, and the G. O.

The members of the club this year were: Walter Connolly, President; Bill Holbrook, Vice President; Harold Welch, Secretary; Jack Belote, Treasurer; and Jack Fleishman, Sergeant-at-Arms; Ivy Belote; Francis Crilly; Henry Rassier; Lester Thomas; Joe Ciomei; and Bill Hildebrand.

The faculty advisers were: Mr. Hardell, Mr. Rippey, Mr. Birch, Mr. Wondrack, Mr. Piggott, and Mr. Brown. These faculty advisers were members of the Circle T Clubs of past years.

The Diamond T Club is an organization for the girls who have achieved a letter for work in physical education. To receive a Diamond T a girl must have a total of one hundred points for participation in gym activities. Points are given for participation in hockey, basketball, volley ball, baseball, and archery. Additional points are given to the winner and runner-up in the archery tournament; to those playing on a class team; and for perfect attendance at physical training classes.

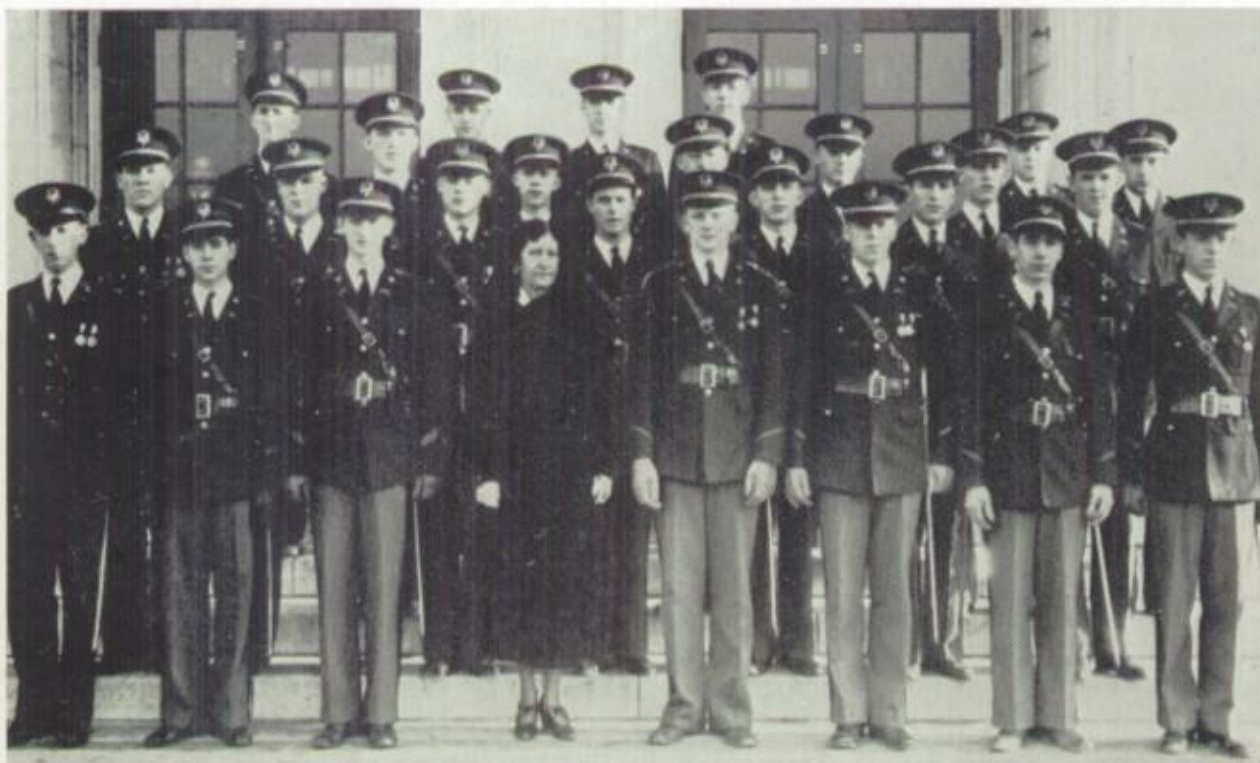

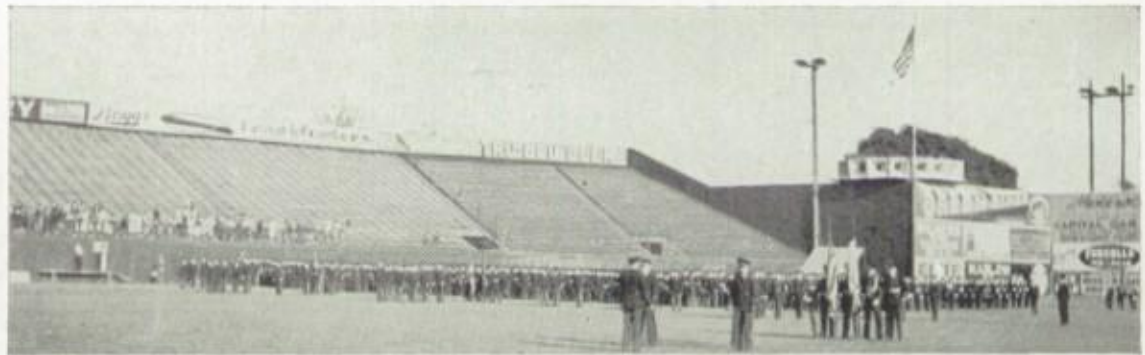

After earning these points the girls must be approved by the same people who pass on the award of the Circle T before receiving their letter.

The members of the Diamond T Club this year were: Audrey Canfield, President; Ruth Neal, Vice President; Pearl Arrow, Secretary; Mae Weyrich, Treasurer; Evelyn Frye; Lillian Carleton; Norma Freeman; Helen Chumbris; Henrietta Elsberg; Mary Shaw; Cecilia Baardse; and Dolores Blankenship.

The faculty adviser of the club is Mrs. Daniel, the girls' physical training instructor.

SABER ● CHEVRONS CLUBS

The Saber Club is Tech's officer's club; its functions are both military and social. Every officer is eligible for membership and usually the club's roster is synonymous with the list of the regiment's officers. The emblem is a small gold saber pin with a pearl-studded "T" superimposed on it, connected by a short chain to a guard indicating the year.

The social activities sponsored by the club included a dance given in Tech's gym on December 17, and the annual Second Regiment Ball presented on April 29. The organization financed the publication of the "Tekadet" for a second year, and Lieutenant Colonel J. R. Weiss and Captain B. Wright were their representatives on its staff. Cadet Night, held May 6, was also promoted by the members. Captain L. Cecchini was chosen from among them to manage this affair.

Mrs. Bella B. Thompson acted as faculty adviser.

At the mention of the officer's club, the non-commissioned officer's club or Chevrons Club is immediately brought to mind. It is an assembly of the non-commissioned personnel of Tech's cadets, and its members are identified by a sergeant's chevron of maroon and white enamel with chain and guard. The purpose of this organization parallels that of the Saber Club, and its functions have been similar to those sponsored by the officers.

Mr. E. H. Krehbiel served as the faculty adviser. These two groups have accomplished wonders in developing the cadet corps in 1938. They represent the true cadet spirit.

The president of the Saber Club was Captain Walter Burns. Lieutenant Benjamin Lynt was vice president; Captain Louis Cecchini, secretary; Captain Zeb Hamilton, treasurer; Major John Abbadessa, sergeant-at-arms.

In the fall Sergeant Gordon Sandefur was president of the Chevrons Club; Sergeant Frank Roberts, vice president; Sergeant Creighton DeMarr, secretary; Drum Major Sam Hamacher, treasurer. In the spring Sergeant William McCall was elected president; Sergeant Leslie Wright, vice president; Sergeant Bernard Graham, secretary; Sergeant Robert Rivello, treasurer.

The Saber Club members were: Lieutenant Colonel R. Weiss; Major M. Goldberg; Captains J. D. Browne, C. Parker, J. Parker, V. Williams, P. Wilson, B. Wright; First Lieutenants E. Atwater, W. Baldwin, G. Bowen, G. Brumbaugh, J. Curtin, L. Figliozzi, C. Johnson, B. Lynt, D. Magruder, W. Mayne, K. Rhine; Second Lieutenants H. Hoover, T. Hunter, R. Nordby, D. Woodburn, and W. Wilson.

Members of the Chevrons Club were: Sergeant Major W. Lawson; Quartermaster Sergeant V. Gingell; Color Sergeants E. Billhimer, H. Sites; First Sergeants M. Fabrizio, R. Dysland, E. Jenkins; Sergeants L. Anderson, A. Beard, J. Branigan, B. Clark, J. Clark, R. Close, G. Cole, R. Ebner, W. Frank, H. Gallogly, G. Hennesy, F. Hicks, M. Johan, A. Jones, L. Kroner, N. McCeney, J. Moore, A. Noble, J. Novak, J. Oehmann, F. Pierce, G. Rickard, R. Searls, G. Skemp, R. Sliney, R. Wagner, C. Wilding, H. Wilkerson; Corporals S. Brown, W. Carver, C. Copelan, C. Creamer, W. Gast, M. Goss, J. Haar, J. Hardy, H. Hickman, J. Hook, R. Jennings, H. Jones, P. Krause, J. Mathers, J. Murray, R. Osyer, L. Parezo, W. Phelps, R. Philo, L. Plant, R. Robson, C. Singleton, A. Snee, C. Stewart, J. Studds, G. Swain, A. Titlow, H. Trevillian, C. Trott, M. Tryon, R. Weber, J. Welty, R. Wiseman, A. Zabel.

PUBLICATIONS

TECH LIFE history began in 1913 when the paper was published under the name of "Tech News." In 1914, Mr. Park Talks, with the approval of the student body, christened the paper TECH LIFE. Although it had only eight pages with three columns of ten inch length, the size seemed popular because it differed from the first magazine form, known as "Hand and Mind."

Mr. O. Saugstad was the first faculty adviser of TECH LIFE. After several changes the paper came to rest in Mrs. A. H. Coe's hands in 1925. Under her leadership the first journalism class was established with sixteen members.

In 1926 Miss L. J. Smith became adviser. During that year many changes took place in the arrangement of the paper. TECH LIFE won highest prize in a journalistic contest at Washington and Lee University, and, in 1928, an eight page historical number came out as the last issue in the old building.

On coming to the new building in 1928, the paper was printed in our own print shop which accounted for its changes in form.

TECH LIFE increased to six columns under Miss E. Foster in 1929, and, for the first time, had a real work shop. The office for the paper was previously only a corner of a classroom enclosed by curtains. Room 329 was now shared jointly by the TECH LIFE and TECHITE staffs.

The paper in 1932 won honor awards under Miss V. J. Willis. Three years later Mr. R. D. Brinker became adviser.

The awards proudly claimed by TECH LIFE are: All-American Honor Rating, N. S. P. A., 1934; First-Class Rating, N. S. P. A., 1935, 1936, 1937; International Honor Award, Quill and Scroll, 1933, 1934, 1936, 1937; First-Place Rating, C. S. P. A., 1933, 1934, 1935; First-Place Award, S. I. P. A., 1937.

Memberships: National Scholastic Press Association, 1937-1938; N. A. J. D., 1937; International Quill and Scroll; Columbia Scholastic Press Association.

Tech Life

The business staff was composed of: Elsie Mae Turner, Business Manager; Lillian Loesberg, Advertising Manager; La Rue Branham, Subscription Manager; and Cary Singleton, Circulation Manager.

The business staff remained the same, with the exception of the Circulation Manager. Grace Valenti succeeded Cary Singleton in this position.

The faculty advisers of the school paper were: Literary Adviser, Mr. R. D. Brinker; Business Adviser, Mrs. S. F. Brinker; Supervisor of Printing Composition, Mr. B. T. Anderson; and Supervisor of Press Work, Mr. S. W. Edwards.

TECH LIFE is published bi-weekly from September to June by members of the journalism class. It is purely the school's own product, being printed, as well as composed, by the students under supervision of the faculty advisers. The editorial staff writes articles, plans pages, and receives contributions from the pupils in the journalism class, who serve as reporters. The students get valuable experience in writing editorials, news articles, sports summaries, interviews, and many other features of interest to Techites.

The financial success of the paper falls upon the business staff. With the aid of representatives from each section, the staff secures subscriptions to the paper. The rate is five cents per copy, or thirty-five cents per semester, which may be paid in three installments if the student prefers. Advertisements of local stores are also taken in order to help defray the cost of publication.

The printing of the paper is done by the students in the advanced printing class. Tech has all the necessary facilities for the printing of a modern newspaper. The linotyped copy is first run off on the proof press, and finally the finished product, printed on a Kelly press, is ready for distribution among the sections.

STAFF OF THE TECHITE OF 1938.

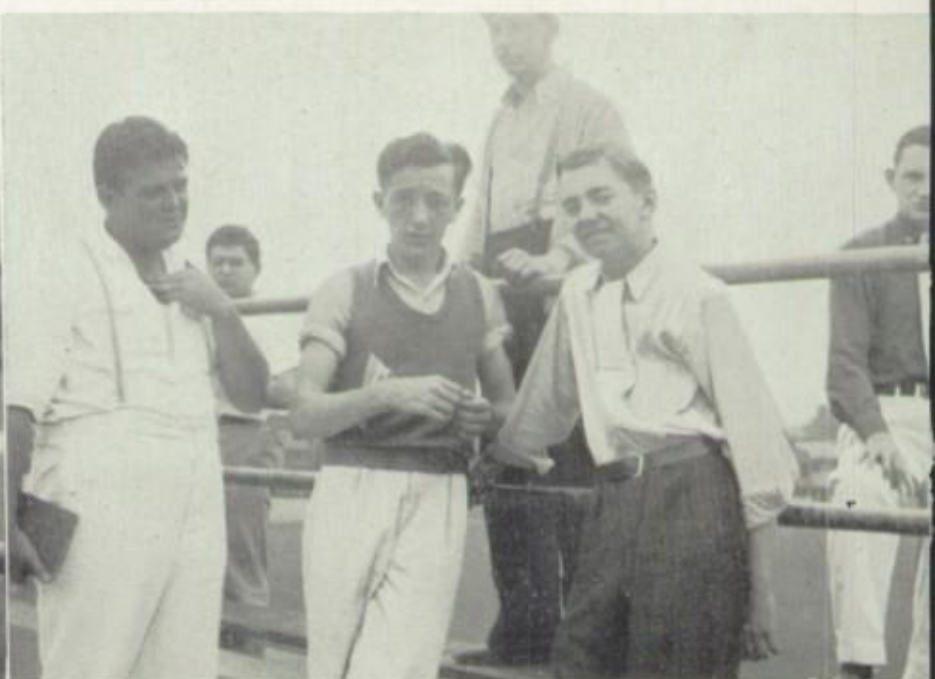

T E C H I T E

The literary staff was headed by Elise Fisher, editor, whose job it was to design, plan, and organize the work of the year book. Margaret Haetler had charge of the senior pages. She secured names and statistics about the graduating classes and wrote the copy for these pages. The faculty copy was the work of Marion May. Data were collected and copy concerning school sports was written by Harry Newby and his associate Robert Armstrong. Mark Riffey, photographer, and Tom McNiel, his assistant, took pictures of clubs, interesting views, and school activities. The drawings and illustrations were the work of Marie Goo On. Doris Thompson spent a great many hours working over the organizations, gathering their membership lists, and writing copy about them. Planning the pages, collecting material for copy and writing the copy for the military unit was the job of Richard Weiss. Special work in writing and collecting facts were the duties of Ida Lewis and William Frank. Those who assisted the members of the staff were Jean Donahue, Shirley Patterson, and Doris Speake.

Lester Carrick headed the business staff as manager. He had charge of the financial matters concerning the year book, contracts, and subscriptions. His assistant, Dorothy Ferguson, aided him with typing, filing contracts, and financial records. Most of the clerical and correspondence work was done by Pearl Arrow, secretary. The photographic manager, Raymond Gustafson, collected fees for senior pictures, gave out receipts, and arranged the dates for sittings. Helen Grivakos and Kenneth Frangioni assisted him with the work. Dorothy Burchell did the necessary secretarial work for them. Collecting money and arranging for organization pictures was the job of Lewis Darling. Mariam Boeglen, Bernice Richardson, Alice Haislip, and Frances Montgomery were subscription clerks, who collected money for the book, and kept record of sales.

Clubs

HOME ECONOMICS CHEMISTRY NATURE

Three clubs, so seemingly different, yet so closely connected, are the Chemistry, the Nature, and Home Economics clubs.

The members of the Chemistry Club were students keenly interested in the science of chemistry and its effect on everyday life. They were those who wished to pursue their knowledge of chemistry even further than possible in the daily class room. The faculty adviser was Mr. A. J. Marsh. The fall officers were Teddy Lempke, President; Harry Newby, Vice President; and Richard March, Secretary-Treasurer. The spring officers were Richard March, President; Harry Newby, Vice President; and Mina Brown, Secretary-Treasurer. The active members were John Abbadessa, Bunadette Amos, Dorothy Brinson, Gilbert Bowen, Mina Brown, David Coleman, Stuart Cooley, Juliette Coulombe, Jane Daniel, James Demas, John Dillon, Robert Erdman, Robert Felter, Phyllis Frank, Daniel Fufeld, Harry Galloqly, Robert Gearheart, Phyllis Gustafson, Larry Green, Elizabeth Ives, Elmer Jenkins, Albert Jones, Cogan Hammett, Betty Jones, Lawrence Kroner, Joseph Lavezzo, Daniel Leenov, Teddy Lempke, Kong Kay Lim, Richard Marsh, William Mayne, Jacqueline Mills, Lucia Mitchell, Gay Morrow, R. M. Moseley, John Mylroie, Harry Newby, Robert Nordby, Jordan Novak, Thomas Poole, Robert Preston, Alice Skelton, Max Tryon, William Williams, Donald Van Kirk, Robert Wagner, Richard Weiss, and Edmund Zabel.

Bugs, and snakes, and birds, and plants—these were the chief interests of the Nature Club. They pursued Nature's children in all their forms, made field trips, and hikes, and visited exhibitions and museums. They studied the habits and habitations of plants and animals.

The members of the club were mainly students in the biology classes. The faculty adviser was Dr. Milsaps. The regular members were Herbert Warner, Mildred Beauverd, Antoinette Ketner, Henry Lambert, Louise Friday, George S. Stringer, Dorothy Whitney, Connie Leighton, Mary Smith, Fred Snowden, Elsa Augstein, Gene Beauverd, Helen Marie Carter, Irene Miller, Alice Pfluger, Mildred Madigan, Eulaine Humke, Doris Bombard, Tommy Lawson, Clytus Freeman, Isabel McInnis, Theresa Beauverd, Hubert Augstein, Gilbert Bowen, Thomas Mattingly, Ruth Geran, George Anderson, Dolores Henry, Dorothy Diebel, Catherine Bailey, Katherine Wheeler, Joyce Oliver, Leslie Wright, Gordon Sandefur, Henry Studds, Raleigh Donley, Mary Lois Lutton, Warren Pendleton, Frances Jackowski. New spring members were Fern Almquist, Mabel Meier, Joe Blow, Howard Trevillian, Gloria Degenhardy, Kathryn Smith, Catherine Newton, Raymond Ferguson, Martha Adams, Betty Bush. Then too, there were the graduates Donald Scott, Leo Jackowski, Robert Geran, Dave Rawlings, John Leighton, Eddie Smith, Lucille Boyle and Margaret Whitney who still return to participate in the activities of the club. There were also three outsiders, William Orsinger, Carl Imlay, and Katherine Veiman, who, although they were not members of Tech's student or alumni bodies, joined the club and were regular and active members.

The Home Economics Club is an outgrowth of the Home Economics Department. The Tech club joined the National Society of Home Economics. Its activities were parties, teas, and making Christmas gifts for the poor, all activities of the home.

Officers of this club were Dora Green, President; Jean Donahue, Vice President; Katherine Hanley, Secretary; Ruth Billington, Treasurer; and Miriam Gross, Sergeant-at-Arms; with Mrs. Rush as faculty adviser. Members of the club were Norma Chipman, Pauline Clark, Allene Deitz, Betty Dobyns, Dorothy Werth, Xie Storey, Violet Winchester, Helen Large, Lorraine Childs, Ruth Ulman, Naomi Ulman, Norma Kolber, Dolores Henry, Elizabeth Baltimore, Harriet Davis, and Frances Jackowski.

At Home

The Home Economics department offers the girls of our school twelve different courses. These courses familiarize the students with proper dress, manners, styles, cooking, and housekeeping. There were about four hundred and fifty girls who took these various types of home economics. The aim of this department was to improve everyday living in the home, that is, the regulation of home life, preparation and cooking of food, and designing of clothing. For a practical application of home and social life the students were allowed to use the apartment, keep it in order, and hold teas and other social functions in it.

Los alumnos más entusiastas de español organizaron un club para conocer las costumbres de los países donde se habla español. Los programas del club incluyen discursos, películas, comedias, juegos y canciones típicos de esos países. Cuando han terminado las clases a las tres de la tarde se pueden ver estos alumnos pasando otra hora en la escuela cada segundo miércoles quedándose para charlar y hablar con amigos simpáticos. Basta decirse que no pierden tiempo los que se reúnen en el Club Español.

Le cercle français est organisé pour les élèves qui désirent une connaissance plus intime de la langue qu'il n'est possible d'obtenir en classe. Tout le monde fait des efforts acharnés pour parler la langue. Même les commençants font de leur mieux pour s'exprimer, le professeur et les élèves les plus avancés aident. Les programmes consistent en des jeux, des chansons, des causeries impromptues, des conversations, des pièces, des pasquinades, et des films.

EL CLUB ESPANOL LE CERCLE FRANCAIS

The officers of the Spanish Club were Robert Searls, President; John Abbadessa, Vice President; Louise Groves, Secretary; Margaret Haetler, Treasurer. Mr. DeBerriz made an enthusiastic guide and adviser. The members were, exclusive of officers, Joe Amos, Theresa Beauverd, Sarah Cohen, Marjorie Dillon, Betty Dobyns, Marjorie Gibson, Marie Goo On, Elmer Jenkins, Albert Jones, Ida Lewis, Herman Lichterman, Natalie Lichterman, Marion May, Tom McNeil, Mary Myers, Thomas Poole, Margaret Satterwhite, Helen Siegel, Nathala Thompson, Josephine Weare, Creighton De Marr, Jack Hardy, Dorothy Scrimger, Betty Jones, Harold Brill, Mrs. Edgerton and Mrs. West.

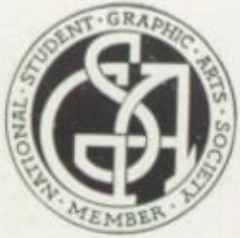

Mrs. Fiezgerald's untiring efforts as adviser of the French Club have borne fruit in a large and devoted membership. The officers during the past year were Mary Frances Flemer, President; Ted Vial, Vice President; Phyllis Gustafson, Secretary; Joseph Parker, Treasurer; John Ransom, Sergeant-at-Arms. The membership included Pat Crowther, Frances Montgomery, John Moore, Lilia Hilton, Malcolm Weiss, Margaret Lillie, Alice Johnson, Erin Ellis, Alice Haislip, William Kissinger, Caroline Jeblick, Mary Martin, Doris Speake, Elise Fisher, Connie King, Eleanor Jacobson, May Babcock, Shirley Patterson, Lorraine Fox, Herbert Haar, Bruno Figallo, Donald Nesline, Pauline Stone, Janet Bigley, Evelyn Birrel, Doris Black, Katherine Hanley, Lois Suit, Geraldine Diamond, Patricia Rhine, Anne Gallogly, Edith Bernstein, and Edward Atwater.

In order to carry out the work and divide it up equally among the members each club had several committees. In the French Club there were seven committees. Games: Malcolm Weiss, Margaret Lillie; Refreshments: Doris Black, Doris Speake, Shirley Patterson; Programs: Donald Nesline, May Babcock; Music: Theodore Vial, Joseph Parker, Patricia Rhine; Properties: Herbert Haar, Byron Sherrill; Conversation: Lois Suit, Geraldine Diamond; Social: Beryl Conklin, Mary Flemer. The Spanish Club appointed two committees for the year but many others were named from time to time to carry out the needs of special occasions. Members of the Publicity Committee were: Albert Jones, Marie Goo On, Natalie Lichterman, Max Goldberg, Helen Siegel. The Program Committee had as members: John Abbadessa, Marjorie Dillon, Nathala Thompson, Natalie Lichterman, Elmer Jenkins.

SKILLED HANDS ON THE STITCHER

A work of art is the product of a man's mind and imagination as well as his hands. Art is not confined to oil paintings in gilt frames, but includes the many products of human hands. Printing and painting must pass the same test for art—fitness for the purpose.

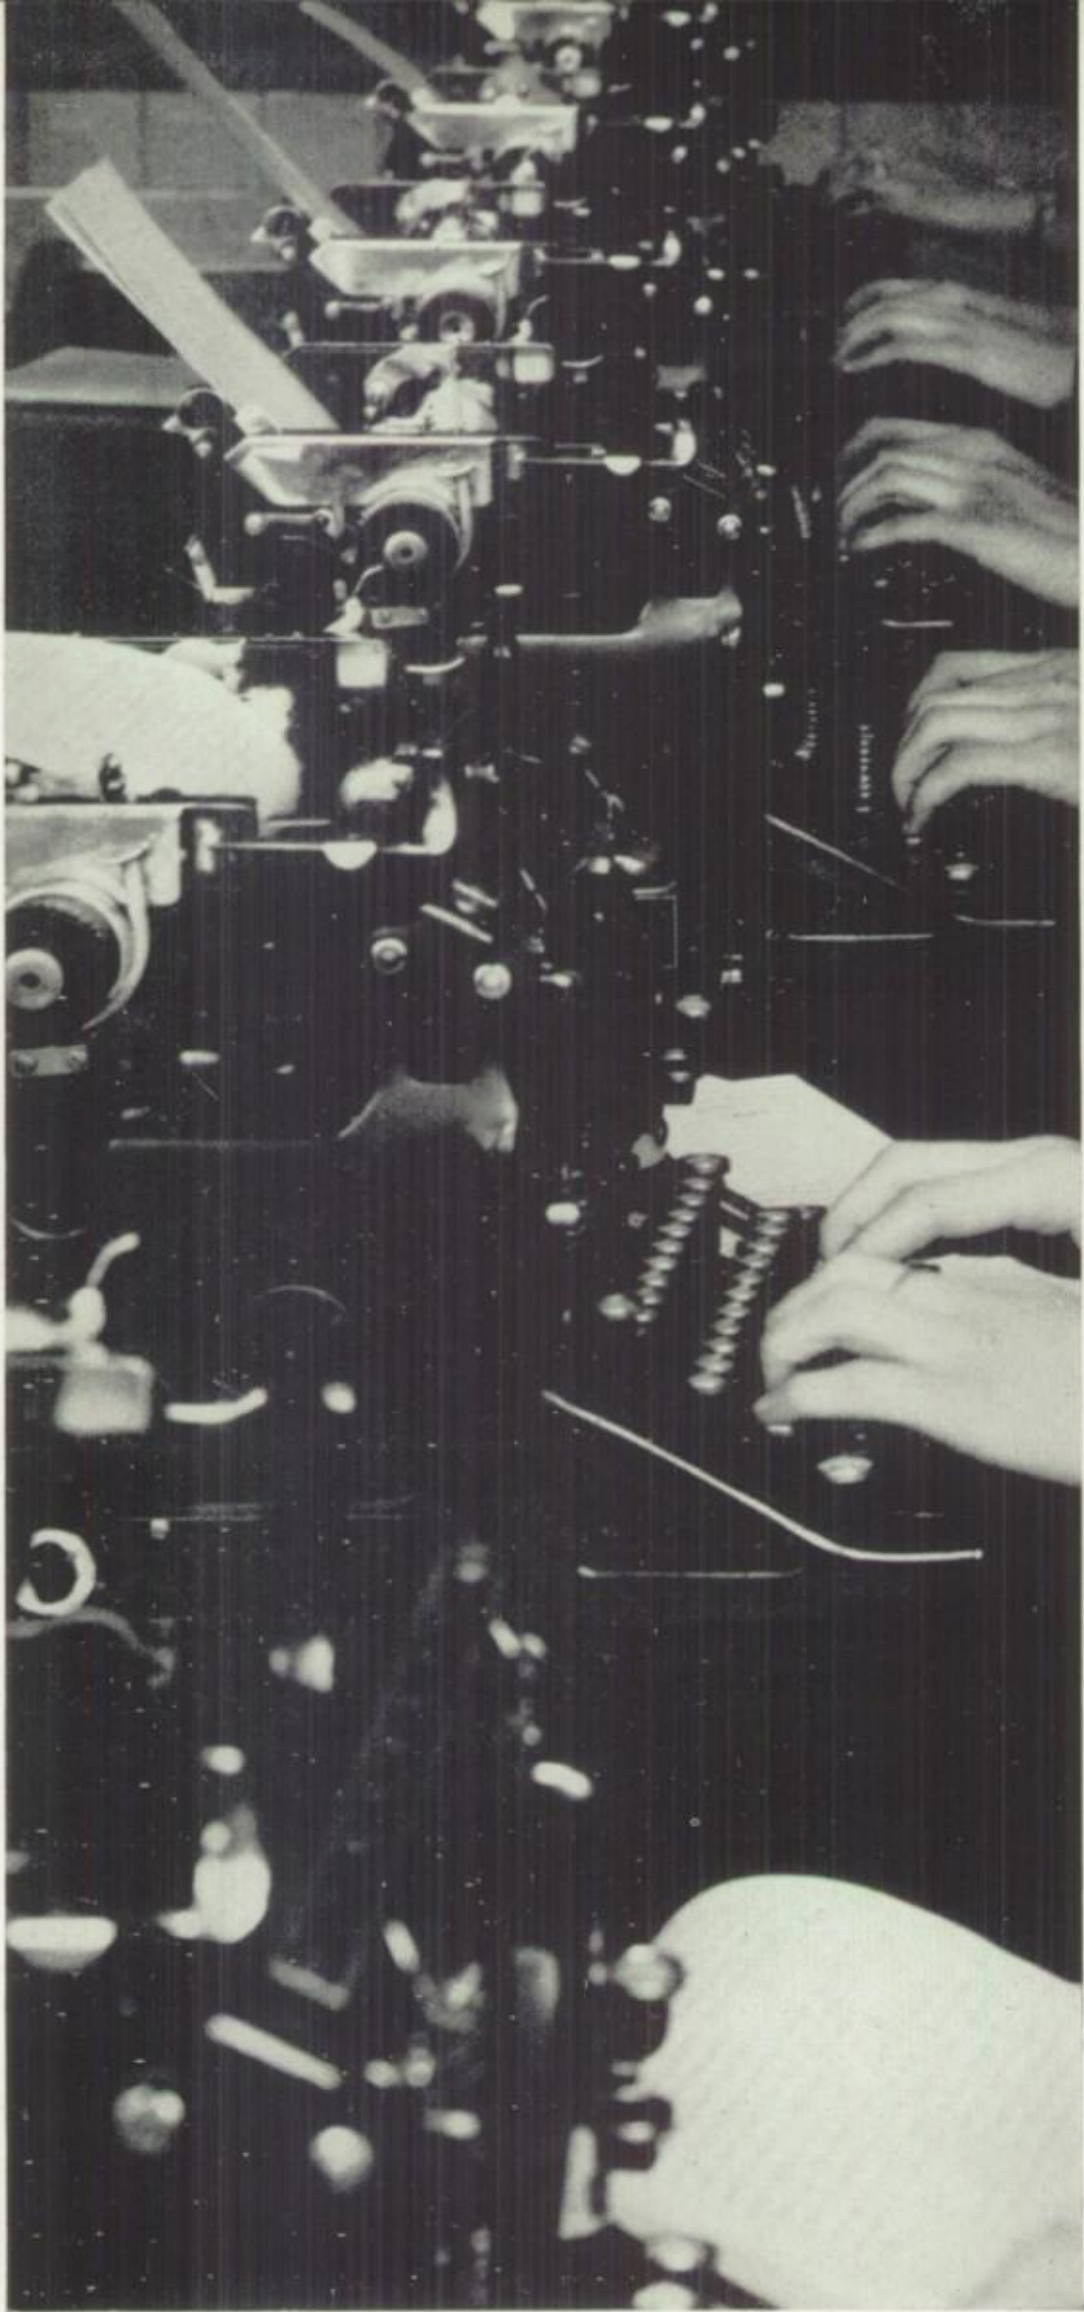

GRAPHIC ARTS

"Real art is the expression by man of his pleasure in labor." The Graphic Arts Club at Tech is a branch of the National Graphic Arts Society. It is made up of students who are interested in printing and its purpose is not only to develop an interest in this work but also to realize its artistic possibilities. Correspondence is carried on with similar clubs in other schools. Among the field trips taken during the year was a visit to one of Washington's leading newspaper establishments, The Star. The birthday anniversaries of famous printers are celebrated in appropriate ways. A wreath was placed at the Statue of Benjamin Franklin in Franklin Park on January 17, 1938. Interviews with men, prominent in the printing industry, are encouraged and reported upon. Mr. Anderson is the faculty adviser of this club. The officers of the club were: President, Harold Skelly; Vice President, John Branigan; Treasurer, Lawrence Overton; Secretary, Ray Gustafson; Sergeant-at-Arms, Richard Graf. The members of the Graphic Arts Club were: Dominic Ricucci, Frank Buono, Lewis Darling, Isadore Fineburg, August Sunnell, Earl Lerch, Hobart Turner, Tony Anzelmo, Charles Stewart, Louis Ricucci, George Uber, Robert Boyce, Williard Smith, Herbert Lampe, LeRoy Linkins, William Frank, Edmund Simonton, Arthur Krop, William Doyle, Carl Creamer, Tom Burson, Paul Ballenger, Peter Boccabella, William Kranking.

PALS AND PALETTES

The Pals and Palettes, Tech's own art club, was organized in 1924 under the direction of Mrs. Eugenie Saugstad. The purpose of the club is to promote the interest and appreciation of the finer arts among the students who are most interested and talented in this work. Some of the pastimes enjoyed by the club were needlework of various designs, wood carving, and all kinds of painting. The Pals and Palettes do more than their share of work towards the success of school affairs when they paint posters for the spring opera, fall play, and other school functions. The meetings were held every Wednesday and Friday in Mrs. Saugstad's art room. One meeting is for the purpose of attending to any business details which may arise, and the other meeting is devoted to their art work. Mrs. Saugstad, the present faculty adviser, instructs the club in all phases of art work of interest to its members. The officers of the club were: President, Harry Powell; Vice President, Margaret Lillie; Secretary, Leverna Klus. The members were: James Gray, Frank Hedrick, Juanita Asher, Madeline Specht, Ruth Gray, Janet George, Warren Cousins, Jack Heflin, Shirley Greenlaw, Bebe Linder, Jennie MacLeish, Mildred White, Leah Ravenscroft, Norma Short.

Flying fingers, darting eyes, tapping keys, moving carriages, and ringing bells; a tense moment! Typists are, in the true sense of the work, artists—unknown artists.

BANK STAFF OFFICE STAFF COMMERCIAL CLUB PLACEMENT BUREAU

The school bank offers an opportunity for budding young bankers to learn the intricate functions of large banking corporations. From the changing of a quarter to the large accounts of clubs and organizations, the members of the staff are ready to do business. From 8:30 until 2:30 the bank is open, and at the end of each month the students have stayed as late as 7:00 to balance the books. In the fall the officers of the staff were: Charles Haynes, President; Cora Lee Fleshman, Cash Book; Nettie Friedman, Auditor; Olive Massey, Duplicate Books and Teller; Joseph Geier, Cashier and Teller; Emmet Owens, Duplicate Books and Teller; Lavon Ockershausen, Secretary; Agnes Walden, Check Register and Teller; Ruth Hansch, Permanent Ledger; Marie Serio, School Treasurer's Books; Audrey Browne, Savings Ledger and Teller; Helen Large, Savings Ledger; Ruth Mitchell, Auditor; Betty Nigro, Secretary; Glynn Little, Secretary. In the spring they were: Ruth Hansch, President; Charles Haynes, Assistant Manager and File Supervisor; Ruth Mitchell, Senior Auditor; Joseph Geier, Assistant Auditor; Nettie Friedman, Cashier; Olive Massey, Permanent Ledger and Trial Balance; Marie Serio, Cash Book; Cora Lee Fleshman, Check Register and General Journal; Audrey Browne, School Treasurer's Books; Emmet Owens, Savings Ledger No. 1; Agnes Walden, Savings Ledger No. 2; Howard Brent, Duplicate Ledger No. 1; Helen Ascosi, Duplicate Ledger No. 2. Mr. Waltz is the faculty adviser.

TECH TACKLES UNEMPLOYMENT! Our Placement Bureau found about one hundred positions for Tech students during the past Christmas season. The bureau is always ready to help every self-helping student. McKinley High School not only trains students for different kinds of employment, but also helps to find jobs for them through the Placement Bureau. Miss Morrow is the director. The members of the bureau were: Betty Dobyns, Jean Davis, Doris Davis, Mary Catloth, Dorothy Bladen, Antoinette Bruno, Carlton Penn.

Much valuable experience is gained by the ambitious student worker in the General Office. The atmosphere is brisk and busy: students rushing here and there; the buzz of the switchboard, the tap of the typewriter; the ringing of the telephone. The members of the staff gain practical knowledge for secretarial and general office work. Mrs. Turner is the manager. The members of the staff were: Joan Abbadessa, Helen Krum, Mary Zanelotti, Mildred Trexler, Christine Evans, Francis Ofenstein, Mary Shonk, Mary Weinrich, John Neese, Mary McDermott, Eleanor Setzer, Louise Friday, Joan Lour, Bernice Dawson, May Tierney, Margaret Baer, Bessie Coleman, Alice Jones, Dorothy Smith, Isabelle Ferman, and Madeline Bawell.

The Commercial Club endeavors to get a birds-eye view of Washington business life by taking trips to different commercial and business departments and establishments. Mrs. Krey is faculty adviser. The membership of the club gains it the reputation of being one of the largest and most active of the school clubs. The members were as follows: Audrey Browne, Charles Haynes, Pauline Clark, Marjorie Atkinson, Thelma Gheen, Frances Foster, May Bennett, Cora Lee Fleshman, Lorraine King, Dorothy Wood, Lola Heffly, Alice Anderson, Ida Browne, Mary Di Giacomo, Robert West, Laura Tacconelli, Norma Jacobs, Meda Fay Thompson, Erma Weinstein, Doris Long, Mariam Boeglen, Vivian Sullivan, Peggy Norris, Ruth Hansch, Gwendolyn Williams, Elsie Crowl, Mable Long, Erma Meegan, Opal Combs, Bessie Coleman, Dorothy Ferguson, Bernadette Clavelaux, Grace Magista, Frances Montgomery, Margaret Helm, Dorothy Phelps, Verna Swift, Helen Banks, Bernice Richardson, Nella Jean Swenson, Norma Chipman, Ruth Mitchell, Violet Winchester, Doris Everdale, Marian Wright, Nettie Friedman, Eugenia Limparis, Elsie Mae Turner, Emmet Owens, Marjorie Gibson, Eleanor Stansbury, Mae Weyrick, Juanita Asher, Thelma Nicol, Sarah Cohen, and Ada Donaldson; faculty members: Mrs. S. F. Brisker, Mr. G. F. Waltz, and Mrs. I. B. Krey.

STUDENTS' CITIZENSHIP COUNCIL • TRAFFIC CLUB

Tech students may never revolt because of lack of representation. The General Organization is the student governing body. Here the duly elected representatives of the student body meet to discuss ways and means of bettering conditions at Tech. The Students' Citizenship Council is the voice of the people, standing in the same relation to the G. O. as the old New England "Town Meetings" did to Congress. Finally, this year, a "citizens' ", or students', group organized to study the special problem of "Traffic."

The Students' Citizenship Council consists of students who have been enrolled in a history class at any time. At the meetings civic problems are studied, discussed and passed upon. One such problem presented during the past year was the improvement of the school grounds and surrounding neighborhood. A committee was appointed to investigate complaints from nearby residents that Tech students were throwing refuse upon their premises. A campaign was inaugurated to impress the Tech public with the importance of cleanly surroundings.

Another evidence of civic activity was the voting conducted by the Students' Citizenship Council to determine Tech's best girl citizens. This was the Good Citizenship Pilgrimage Award sponsored by the Daughters of the American Revolution. Tech voted Xie Storey, first place; Marjorie Stockett, alternate; and Madeline Bawell, third, to receive these awards. The medals were presented in March by Mrs. Becker, President General of the Society.

In such ways the students not only learned to direct their own affairs but also to cooperate with those in authority.

The Traffic Club organized not for training in general citizenship but to study the one problem designated by its name. The members devoted themselves to research, or fact-finding, with a view toward action on this difficult civic problem. Speakers with charts and statistics not only entertained but informed the club at many meetings. The member's observation on his way to and from school could not help but amplify the speeches of these lecturers. The American Automobile Association encouraged the new club by sending to the school early in the fall semester a machine for measuring driving ability, accompanied by a demonstrator to direct the test. Any student might present himself for examination regardless of membership in the Traffic Club. The tests were repeated for several days.

Since the first permit to drive an automobile is usually granted during high school years perhaps the Traffic Club may hope to catch 'em young and train 'em up in the way they should drive.

A green light for the new club to speed it on to success is the wish of the TECHITE!

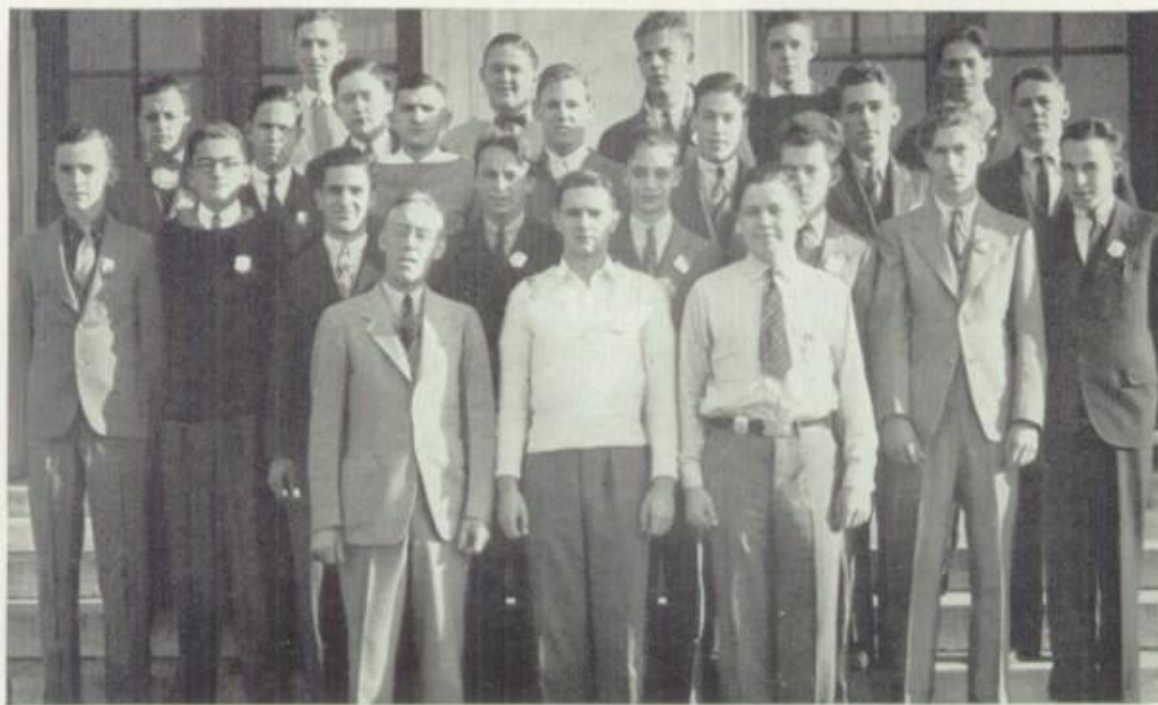

The Students' Citizenship Council is made up of three bodies, the Cabinet, consisting of the officers and committee chairman, the Council, consisting of all active members, and the Judicial, composed of a justice and two assistant judges. The form of the club is modeled upon governmental forms which have existed at some time in the United States. For example, the Judicial is taken from the present judicial system of the United States; the Council derives from the old town meeting of New England. Better citizenship is its aim. To be a better citizen of the world, of the United States, or, of the District of Columbia, of course, but, more important still, to be a better citizen of Tech, that is the aim!

During the year of 1937-1938 Evelyn Craft was the president, ably assisted by James Welty as vice president. Helen Grivakos was secretary to the Cabinet; Mary Cheseldine served as secretary to the House; Vincent Tana held the job of treasurer; the judges were Robert Walsh, Albert Pruss, and Garrett Swain. The committee chairmen were: Program, Virginia Winchester; Finance, Jack Murray; G. O., Edla Thomas Principals', Betty Dobyns; P. T. A., Lois Swift; District of Columbia, Howard Beard; and Civic Education, Carlton Black. Miss Marsh, Miss Whitener, and Mr. Vail acted as sponsors.

A second club emphasizing good citizenship was organized this year. This was the Traffic Club. It was an outgrowth of the safe-driving campaign in Washington. At their meetings every Friday under the guidance of Mr. Krehbiel, the club's faculty adviser, the members discussed and studied traffic problems. Although in its first year the Traffic Club had a large and faithful membership. The officers of the club were enthusiastic leaders. Theodore Vial was president; Jane Daniel was vice president; Daniel McNally was the treasurer; and Mary Shonk was secretary. The members were George Beveridge, Robert Bierly, John Branigan, Granville Brumbaugh, William Carl, Alberta Cissel, Stuart Cooley, Harriet Davis, James Demas, Rollie Essex, Cora Lee Fleshman, Daniel Fوسفeld, Doris Graham, Carl Harris, Elizabeth Ives, Elmer Jenkins, Albert Jones, Jean Lightbown, Leon Litsis, Benjamin Lynt, Grace Magista, Donald Magruder, Mary Martin, Lucia Mitchell, Ruth Mitchell, Richard Moran, Charles Parker, Francis Pettitt, Francis Pierce, June Rager, Ruth Randall, James Robb, Gordon Sandefur, Irene Scher, Dorothy Smith, William S. Smith, Henry Studds, George Stuntz, Cyril Turner, Elsie Mae Turner, Donald Van Kirk, John Weaver, Richard Weiss, Dorothy Werth, Margaret Williams, Marshall Wills, Jean Wilson, William Zeller.

Tech's halls are well patrolled. Maintaining order is a civic duty—a duty cheerfully discharged by all—by the patrol, the students, the teachers.

TECH PATROL

The most important work the boys do is to keep general order in the halls. The members have to be recommended by their section teachers and two other teachers have to sign their applications. In order to remain on the "Patrol" they have to maintain a good scholastic average. Each boy wears a small badge when he is on duty. Most of the members serve only one period a day. Best of all, the boys receive one-fourth of a credit a semester for services rendered. This year several of the boys were presented with gold, silver and bronze pins for being the best captain, lieutenant or sergeant.

Mr. Mitchell was the founder of the "Senior Patrol" which finally became the "Tech Patrol." In February 1935, Mr. Keyser succeeded Mr. Mitchell as director. In February of this year, Mr. Sanders took Mr. Keyser's place as head of the "Tech Patrol."

In order that the "Patrol" boys may know which students are to be permitted in the corridors each student must have and show a pass on demand. These passes bear the signature of the adviser of the "Patrol." They are numbered so that recovery is facilitated in case of loss. Passes for different periods had distinctive colors last semester. Those colored brown were for use any period of the day. These passes were issued to teachers for class room, section, or extra-curricular use. Some of the teachers made the passes more distinctive still by attaching them to a large board so that the "Patrol" boy did not even have to say, "Gotta pass?" Teachers aided the "Patrol" by sending no student into the halls without the proper pass. This resulted in a genuine feeling of harmony and cooperation between teachers and students that made Tech a better place for both.

The officers and members of the organization were as follows:

Opening Period: Captain, Richard Meyer; Lieutenants, Edwin Billhimer, John Herrick, John Riseling; Sergeant, George Vogan; Privates, Conrad Alberding, Wrenton Aldridge, John Branigan, William Baker, Francis Carter, Louis Cerda, Boswell Clark, Carl Creamer, Leslie Darrow, Ralph Dohoney, Francis Fletcher, Charles Hildebrand, Theodore Marks, Henry Miller, H. T. Montgomery, John O'Roark, Paul Prose, Frederick Roy, John Scott, Albert Sendgikoski, Thomas Sheppard, Coleman Shepherd, Henry Studds, Albert Theibault, Donald Van Kirk, Bernard Wall, Charles Watson, Harry Watson, Joseph Warrenner, Edmund Zabel, Norman Reed, Ernest Gearing.

First Period: Captain, William Giles; Lieutenant, John Caputo; Privates, Thomas Bayer, George Stringer, Norman Reed.

Second Period: Captain, Raymond Reynolds; Sergeant, Byron Harrison; Privates, Don Harris, Ivan Mericle, Robert Vaught.

Quiet Please

A MODERN LIBRARY . . . that is the proud possession of Tech. A library excellent both in beauty and service. A mural depicting the progress of America decorates the walls. The painter was Philip Bell, a graduate of Central and later of the Yale Art School, who, in 1935 under the P. W. A., started the work which lasted for two summers.

There are 4,950 books in the library and these are supplemented twice weekly by books borrowed from the public library. During the past year there was a circulation amounting to 10,805.

The library is under the supervision of Miss J. Grady, who, before accepting her position in the school in 1919, worked in the children's department at the Takoma Park branch of the public library. Students acting as assistants receive one-half credit per semester, and must have a good scholastic rating in order to hold their positions. Those who do only secretarial work receive credit for office training.

Classes are conducted for freshmen each year to acquaint them with the library and the services offered them.

Vocational classes are held here four times daily, so that the students enrolled in these classes may have access to the various books pertaining to their subject. Pupils may also use the library during their free periods instead of reporting to study halls.

There are various regulations which must be observed. The hours are from 9:00 A. M. to 3:30 P. M., excluding the fourth and fifth periods. Books circulate for one week, and are subject to renewal except when in great demand. There is a fine of two cents per day for overdue books. Reference and certain history books are only circulated overnight. Books used for the period must be signed for, and the card left at the desk. No books may be taken from the library without filling in name, section, and section teacher's name. Quiet must be maintained at all times, and students using the library during study periods are expected to remain until the bell rings.

LIBRARY ASSISTANTS CHESS CLUB

Quiet reading. The soft tread of the assistant. This is the atmosphere of the library under the watchful eye of Miss Grady. In the fall the staff members were as follows: Helen Siegel, Lillian Broider, Priscilla Pratt, Josephine Weare, Elaine Bell, Jeanette Plowman, Jean Smith, Chester Grimes, Ernestine King, Herbert Haar, Thomas McNeil, Phyllis Dibble, Bessie Coleman, Jane Daniel, Lorraine Childs, Lois Lutton, Mary Higdon, Leona Milan, Walter Spindle, Juanita Madron. In the spring the staff members were: Josephine Weare, Bessie Coleman, Jeanette Plowman, Herbert Haar, Jane Daniel, Lorraine Childs, Lois Lutton, Leona Milan.

On Tuesdays the tap, tap of chessmen on the chess board was heard from Mrs. Frazier's room on the second floor. In the fall under the capable leadership of Sol Breeskin, President; John Abbadessa, Vice President; and Robert Bierly, Secretary-Treasurer; the club practised and held matches with other schools. In the fall the members were: Mishel Bernstein, Harold Brill, Leonard Cox, Robert Feeney, Daniel Fوسفeld, George Gee, Lawrence Kroner, Daniel Leenov, William Phelps, Philip Bierly, and Gordon Pool. The spring officers were: Robert Bierly, President; Robert Feeney, Vice President; Daniel Fوسفeld, Secretary-Treasurer. The other members were: Daniel Leenov, George Gee, William Phelps, Lawrence Kroner, Ernest Solberg, Mishel Bernstein, Harold Brill, and John Abbadessa.

Book Week

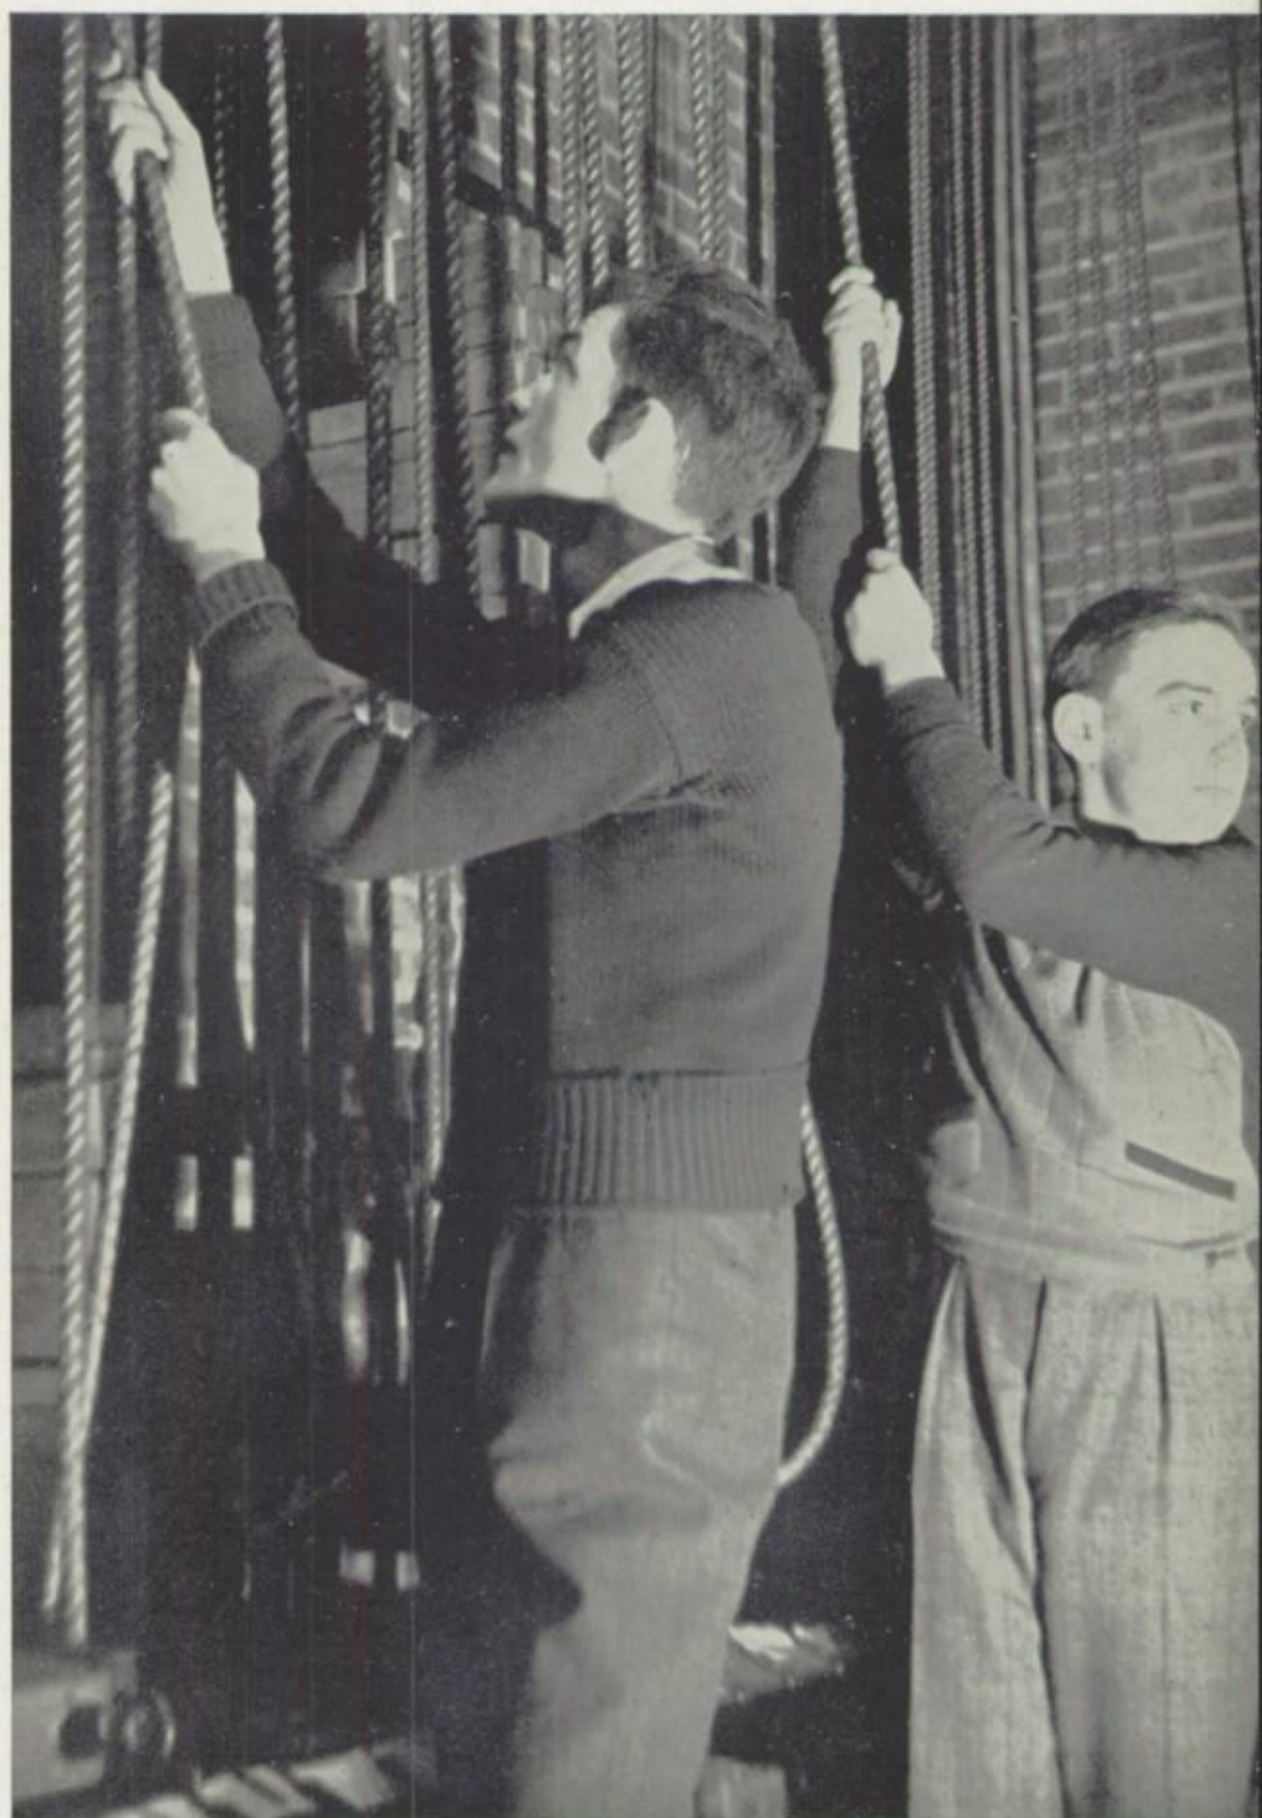

Did you see Napoleon? Queen Elizabeth? Josephine? or Queen Victoria? Of course! Where? In the library!

The library staff acted the part of characters from different periods of history — of England, France and America for Book Week. Would you be surprised to know that Napoleon was none other than Herbert Haar—Queen Elizabeth, Ernestine King—Josephine, Jane Daniel—Queen Victoria, Bessie Coleman! Others participating were Jean Smith, Mary Higdon, Leona Milan, Priscilla Pratt, Walter Spindle, Helen Siegel, Phyllis Dibble, Irving Sanders, Wilbur Olin, Carl Grimes, Josephine Weare, Lillian Broider, Tom McNiel, Juanita Madron, and Elaine Bell.

"Pull 'er up!" That is the call of one boy to another back stage. On many important occasions the boys have handled the ropes, curtains, and switches effectively. Many of our plays and operas have become a success, for one reason, because the stage was in capable hands. The crew has become so skillful that it takes only a few minutes to change the scenery between acts. "Let 'er down!" Another familiar shout back stage.

GIRLS' STAGE CREW

BOYS' STAGE CREW

It's 8:15 P. M.! The orchestra members are assembling. The audience is filing into the seats. Soon the curtain will rise and the actors and actresses will appear in order. But what is taking place behind the curtain? Here the Girls' Stage Crew is working. Officers of this club were Dorothy Whitney, Manager; Mary Smith, Assistant Manager; with Mrs. Rush as faculty adviser. Members were Louise Friday, Alice Skelton, Eugenia Limparis, Dorothy Wood, Mary Galomb, Helen Bell and Flora Witt.

Also the Boys' Stage Crew worked hard constructing the scenery and properties used for our plays and operas. The scenes had to be changed in a very short time. Much care and skill had to be used in this work as the scenery was bulky and some of the equipment very expensive.

Our stage is the largest stage in the city of Washington, including both school and professional stages. We have a modern switchboard with inter-locking switches and dimmers for operating the stage lights. This switchboard makes it possible to dim any one light slowly or to dim or cut off any group of lights simultaneously. These lights can produce any color lighting. We also have equipment for "flying" scenery. There is above our stage a steel bridge which is used for focusing spot lights, both movable and fixed. Few schools have this steel bridge. Any desired sound effect can be produced by our Stage Crew. In case of fire the stage is provided with three means of keeping the fire from spreading into the auditorium. The first is the curtain that is always down in front of the stage when the stage is not being used. This curtain is made of solid steel and is covered with asbestos, so, is entirely fire-proof. The second is a water pipe which runs above the stage in back of the front curtains. In case of fire this pipe would spread a "water curtain" across the entire stage. The third is a system of ventilators which would draw the fire back into the stage instead of allowing it to go into the auditorium to spread destruction there. Other parts of our stage equipment are eighteen curtains, including main curtains, olio curtains and four sets of movable curtains. It takes twelve men to operate the stage smoothly. The adviser was Mr. Sweeny of the custodial staff. These boys gained a practical knowledge of stage craft by becoming members of this club. The members of the Stage Crew were Edward Scullen, Howard Sites, Harold Skelly, William Page, John Mathers, and Richard Moran.

When the time came for the actors and actresses to be made up the Paint and Powder Club appeared and gave unselfishly of its time and energy. The officers of this club were: president, Bebe Linder; custodian, Jennie MacLeish; secretary, Dorothy Thayer. The members were Joan Abbadessa, Frances Jackowski, Delia Nye, Louise Marsh, Marilyn Jones, Helen Krum, and Alice Young. The adviser was Miss Barnhart.

But the accomplishments of these clubs were often like the feet at the bottom of this page—that is—nameless.

The Christmas Pageant of the Holy Grail

Christmas this year brought a contribution to Tech's series of activities in the revival of a serious type of Christmas program. The production was sponsored by the Dramatic Club.

The students, prepared in advance for the solemnity of the occasion, were ushered into the far past to King Arthur's great hall at Camelot. There they witnessed the King's vision of the Nativity and of the Holy Grail, which came to him as he slept on Christmas Eve; the setting forth of the knights in quest of the Holy Grail; the return of the knights, each bringing what he deemed the perfect gift for Christ; the presentation of Galahad, the gift "of a nobler knighthood, white, unstained, and true," which brought back the long-sought sacred cup. The pageantry of the medieval setting and costumes, the lighting effects, the organ and choir interpolations, and Benjamin Lynt's unexcelled interpretation in reading the story made this one of the most impressive programs in the experience of the present student body. The hush of the audience expressed the deep feeling with which the play was received.

At the close of the pageant the annual Christmas tree and Christmas baskets filled by the students for needy families were displayed in a tableau.

It is our earnest hope that this type of Christmas program will be perpetuated and that the Techites who follow us may derive as deep a satisfaction from it as we have.

On Wings of Song

Each morning between 8:30 and 9:00 faint strains of melody can be heard from the music rooms on the second floor. The boys' glee club known as the Joseph H. Daniel Glee Club and the "just plain" Girls' Glee Club of McKinley High School have gained a very good reputation among Washingtonians. The Joseph H. Daniel Glee Club was named for the father of our principal. He was director of music in the public schools of Washington for forty years. The Girls' Glee Club was started by Miss Florence Keane from whom Mr. Nicodemus inherited it.

The officers of the Girls' Glee Club are chosen for their interest in the club, participation in concerts, and their attendance at rehearsals. The officers of the club were: President, Olive Jane Miller; First Vice President, Jeannette Plowman; Second Vice President, Jean Wilson; Secretary, Carolyn Hotis; Assistant Secretary, Margaret McCathran; Treasurer, Erma Meegan; Librarians, Lois Stackhouse and Selma Moore; Assistant Librarian, Leila Smith; Sergeant-at-Arms, Lulu George; Assistant to the Sergeant-at-Arms, Betty Connally, Betty Clay, and Ruth Fowkes; Accompanists, Laretta Bombaro and Charlotte Warthen.

The members of the Concert Group were as follows: First Sopranos: Juanita Asher, Vera Chite, Bessie Colman, Betty Connally, Dora Gibson, Justine Jones, Margaret Hawes, Grace Magista, Helen McDaniel, Dorothy Mennen, Selma Moore, Lorraine Rogers, Clara Santmyers, Lois Stackhouse, Doris Thompson, Elaine Vaughn, Margaret Williams. Second Sopranos: Gladys Booker, Mina Brown, Betty Clay, Jane Daniel, Lulu George, Carolyn Hotis, Margaret McCathran, Erma Meegan, Olive Jane Miller, Mary Myers, Jeannette Plowman, Mary Shonk, Leila Smith, Josephine Stafford, Virginia Wood. Altos: Allene Dietz, Ann Filgate, Ruth Fowkes, Marion Reynolds, Patricia Rhine, Mary Charlotte Smith, Naomi King, Louise Marsh.

The girls' club also has a training group. They were as follows: First Sopranos, Mary Absher, Mildred Baumann, Verna Eastman, Marion Hooper, Mary Lemke, Marie Stauber, Nellar Swenson; Second Sopranos, Henrietta Baardse, Marie Boswell, Elizabeth Carr, Evelyn Cliff, Mary Clough, Jeanne Daugherty, Margaret Gammon, Janet George, Elaine Glorius, Vivian Holliday, Eleanor Hopkins, Meda Kilmer, Margaret King, Josephine Mease, Jane Miller, Ruth Mitchell, Betty Peters, Charlotte Warthen, Peggy White, Betty Yowell; Altos, Laretta Bombaro, Catherine D'Andelet, Anne Gallogly, Marjorie Hale, Virginia Hughes, Lorraine Lindsey, Margaret McAllister, Dorothy McCarthy, Norma Merillat, Shirley Patterson, Jeanne Rider, Mary Robins, Harriet Smith, Edla Thomas, Doris White, Irene Vavasis.

TECH'S GLEE CLUBS

The new and inexperienced members of the Boys' Glee Club belong to the Training Group. From this group Mrs. Thompson builds up the Concert Group from which the quartets and student director are picked. A group of about thirty is chosen from the active members of the club and are called the Concert Group. This group gives concerts for different organizations. The boys receive no compensation for singing, but they are treated royally by the people for whom they sing.

The officers of the club were: President, David Rabenhorst; Vice President, Theodore Vial; Secretary-Recorder, John Dillon; Corresponding Secretary, Milton Cole; Treasurer, James Schaeffer; Pianist, Joseph Parker; Student Conductor, George Filgate; Business Manager, William Zeller; Personnel Manager, Arthur Snee. The club is under the supervision of Mrs. B. B. Thompson.

The members of the Concert Group are chosen on their merit and the blending of their voices. The members were: First Tenors: Don Brauner, Milton Cole, Charles Curtis, James Robb, and William Ward. Second Tenors: Thomas Coleman, William Emshwiller, Howard Gossage, James Hardey, George Harwood, Leon Myers, Irving Sanders, Arthur Snee, George Stringer, Robert Wagner, and William Zeller. First Bases: Alfred Beard, Howard Brown, George Filgate, Lowell Keagy, Robert Lindbloom, Leon Litsis, William McCall, Charles Parker, Joseph Parker, William Powers, David Rabenhorst, Karl Rhine, and Marshall Wills. Second Bases: Roy Burtner, Frank Carr, George Cornell, John Dillon, Joseph Koenig, Thomas Lawson, Wesley McCann, Bruce Rowzie, James Schaeffer, and Theodore Vial.

The Boys' Glee Club also has a first and second quartet and two soloists. The members of the first quartet were: First Tenor, William Zeller; Second Tenor, Charles Parker; First Bass, George Filgate; Second Bass, George Cornell and Theodore Vial. The members of the second quartet were: First Tenors, Milton Cole and Don Brauner; Second Tenor, Arthur Snee; First Bass, David Rabenhorst; Second Bass, Thomas Lawson. The soloists were: Tenor, William Zeller; Baritone, Howard Beard.

Behind the Concert Group always stands the Training Group ready and willing to take the places of members and officers when they graduate. They were: First Tenor, Edmond Simonton; Second Tenors, Robert Daugherty, Wallace Easter, Perry Gilbert, Jack Hardy, Justin Harrison, Sumter Hatton, John Kester, George Uher, William Williams, Ted Marks, and Robert Erdman; First Bases, George Anderson, Charles Baird, Joseph Bennett, Merrill Birdsong, James Calomeris, Boswell Clark, George Conger, Jack Cranford, Herbert Fritts, Robert Hough, Robert Hunt, Robert Jennings, William Ristig, Earle Simmons, Glenn Skemp, Thompson Smith, Robert Theibault, and Robert Wood; Second Bases, Reid Baker, Robert Birch, Robert Feeney, Robert Felter, Norman Hodgkinson, John Mylroie, Carey Singleton, and Willard Smith.

The calendar for the year follows. You will find that the boys had as many as four concerts in one day.

ADAM AND EVA

Every year Tech students sponsor a number of excellent dramatic productions. This year the Dramatic Club was very successful in its presentation of "Adam and Eva", an interesting and amusing story of a wealthy family. The leading characters of this play were: Benjamin Lynt, a distracted rich man; Eva, his younger daughter; and Bruce Rowzie, the business manager.

Then the lower semesters immediately took up the challenge and put over a play enacted entirely by lower semester students. The leading characters of "Flood Control" were: Barnett Broughton, Phyllis Clark, Gladys Ehrman, Shirley Dickson, and George Ramer.

Next came another big annual event, the "Cash and Can" Assembly. These assemblies have been held for six years and each year they have brought hours of fun to the students and dozens of well-filled baskets for the needy. This year it included duets on the piano, guitars, and dancing; a tumbling act; a pantomime; a trumpet trio; a trained dog act; a German band; marionettes; a piano solo; a xylophone solo; and numerous songs. The winners of this assembly were Marian Robins, Belote's Kitchen Ramblers, and Elaine Glorius.

The proceeds reaped from this assembly were $89.90 and many baskets of food. Add to these items two hours of good entertainment and all must grant that it was a big event.

Among the school's clubs and organizations, the Dramatic Club stands high as one of the oldest and largest in the school. Each fall this club presents a play. After weeks of hard work on the part of the cast and the faculty advisers the play, "Adam and Eva" was presented and enjoyed by a large audience in November. The realistic costuming and scenery along with the exceptional acting of the leads, helped make the play a complete success. A series of tournament plays were presented in the spring. Mrs. Coe and Miss Watkins were the faculty advisers. The officers from September to February were: William Zeller, President; Madeline Bawell, Vice President; Betty Jones, Secretary; Roberta Shirkey, Treasurer; Benjamin Lynt, Sergeant-at-Arms. The new officers elected in February were: William Zeller, President; Morton Johan, Vice President; Betty Jones, Secretary; Roberta Shirkey, Treasurer; Leon Litsis, Sergeant-at-Arms. The members this year were: Joe Amos, Marjorie Atkinson, Mina Brown, Barnett, Broughton, Phyllis Clark, Betty Clay, Shirley Dickson, Gladys Ehrman, George Filgate, Eleanor Furness, Doris Graham, Miriam Gross, Virginia Hodgkins, Loretta Krumm, Natalie Lichterman, Louise Marsh, Mary Martin, Margaret Mills, Dorothy Mennen, Francis Pierce, Richard Purcell, Max Sacks, Selma Saidman, Mary Shonk, Ted Stell, Louise Terry, May Tierney, Dick Tryon, Jesse Watt, and Sarah Williams.

Beautiful costumes, lovely voices, and a symphony in music! The night of the Spring Opera is always something to remember. The Opera Club was one of the first organizations to be instituted at Tech. This year the members were: Marion Reynolds, Dorothy Mennen, Leila Smith, Margaret Williams, Louise Rutherford, Lillian Broider, Betty Connolly, Ruth Tillman, Allene Deitz, Mary Smith, Juanita Gorham, Joseph Collins, Louise Marsh, Doris Thompson, Ted Wills, Max Goldberg, George Filgate, William Zeller, Ted Vial, Alice Kellog, and Louis Figliozi. Mr. Nicodemus was faculty adviser.

The Tech Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Mr. Malkus is one of the most progressive of the school's activities. During the period of its existence the Tech Symphony Orchestra has proved itself to be one of the finest in the Washington High Schools. The orchestra not only plays for the school dramatic and other entertainments, but also finds time for outside engagements. Class night, graduation, and all assemblies are made more enjoyable by selections from the Orchestra. It is interesting to note that many former members of the Tech Symphony Orchestra now have positions in prominent orchestras throughout the country. The orchestra practices every day during the seventh period. This last year it had thirty-nine members: Edna Atkins, John Abbadessa, Margaret Becker, Carol Bombrest, Loretta Bombara, Harold Brill, Joseph Clancey, Margaret Clark, Joseph Collins, Ben Elliott, Erin Ellis, Herbert Fritts, Nathan Giles, Phyllis Gustafson, Ray Gustafson, Ruth Geran, Helen Grivakos, Zeb Hamilton, Howard Hoover, John Hamacher, James Hall, Jack Hardy, Doris Jenkins, Margaret Jones, Lawrence Kidd, Philip Krause, Arthur Krop, Constance Leighton, Helen Mattson, Josephine Mease, Francis Pierce, Ray Reynolds, Frederick Roy, Robert Searls, Ralph Sliney, Melvin Stewart, George Tillinghast, Robert Wagner, and Mary White.

What is the most common sight at noon? Of course it's the plaza dotted with groups of Techites, gossiping and eating those delicious fudgicles. But afterwards—a terrible headache—and, oh, how grand it is to have a modern hospital and obliging matron.

The Hi-Y and the Girl Reserves, branches of the Young Men's Christian Association and the Young Women's Christian Association, are open to boys and girls of high school age. Their purpose is to find and give, throughout the school, high standards of Christian character.

G I R L R E S E R V E S • H I - Y

The membership of the Girl Reserves was larger than that of any other club in the school. Not only was it large, but it grows larger each year. This year the club gained a great honor by having its president, Marjorie Stockett, appointed president of the Girl Reserve Council which is composed of presidents of the Girl Reserve Clubs in all of the high schools.

The girls have given dances at the "Y" and at school. At the beginning of the semester the members presented a fashion show to the girl members of the student body. At their meetings the girls had fine lecturers who talked and gave demonstrations on etiquette, make-up, the customs of foreign countries, and other subjects. At the beginning of each semester a committee was formed to conduct new students about the building. At Christmas the girls contributed gifts and groceries to the baskets.

The faculty advisers were Miss Morrow and Miss McCamman.

Marjorie Stockett was president. The vice president was Maxine Gordon; the secretary, Betty Jones; and treasurer, Jean Donahue. The Council representative was Betty Dobyns. The chairmen of committees were: Social, Lucy McNeely; Social Service, Mary Jane Lohman; Publicity, Xie Storey; Music, Jane Daniel; Assistant for Music, Olive Jane Miller; Membership, Lavon Ockershausen. The historian was Doris Black and the sergeant-at-arms, Margaret Jones.

The members were: Mary Absher, Martha Adams, Juanita Asher, Sylvia Anderson, Bernadette Amos, Henrietta Baardse, Catherine Bailey, Helen Bladt, Ruth Billington, Margaret Bolac, Lillian Broider, Doris Black, Dorothy Brinson, Audrey Browne, Gloria Caldwell, Janice Chamberlain, Elizabeth Clay, Evelyn Cliff, Elsie Crawl, Catherine D'Andelet, Frances Davis, Jean Davis, Geraldine Diamond, Gloria Degenhardt, Shirley Dickson, Betty Dobyns, Bernice Dawson, Jean Donahue, Katherine Demas, Jane Daniel, Gladys Ehrman, Louise Elliott, Erin Ellis, Dorothy Ferguson, Georgianna Fillman, Retta Funkhouser, Eleanor Furniss, Harriet Frankhauser, Winifred Foxwell, Nettie Garmen, Edna Gilbert, Thelma Gheen, Elaine Glorius, Doris Graham, Judith Griffith, Maxine Gordon, Margaret Gammon, Ruth Gray, Dolores Henry, Vivian Holliday, Marjorie Hale, Ruth Hansch, Sybil Heatherington, Dorothy Inscoe, Patricia Jenkins, Caroline Jeblick, Betty Jones, Margaret Lillie, Doris Long, Mary Jane Lohman, Bebe Linder, Constance Leighton, Florence Marlow, Dorothy Mills, Jacqueline Mills, Lorraine McKenna, Marion May, Olive Jane Miller, Louise Marsh, Mary Martin, Lucy McNeely, Peggy Norris, Lavon Ockershausen, Joyce Oliver, Jane Phelps, Elizabeth Peters, Mora Pinkham, Dorothy Richter, Marian Russell, Marjorie Stockett, Selma Saidman, Eleanor Setzer, June Shipley, Betty Sisson, Kathryn Smith, Mary Smith, Madeline Specht, Vivian Sullivan, Mary Shonk, Josephine Specht, Evelyn Thompson, Sylvia Van Schelven, Flora Witt, Margaret White, Susanne White, M. Wessel, M. Williams, Virginia Wilson, Charlotte Wolf, Rosalie Wolf, Kitty Wheeler, Viola Winchester, Virginia Winchester.

The Hi-Y Club, like the Girl Reserves, is sponsored by the "Y". Although it is not as large as the Girl Reserves it has a good membership. The boys are "voted" into the club by the approval of the members. Donald Magruder was president of the club. Jack West and Henry Studds were vice president and secretary, respectively. George Filgate was treasurer and Thomas Lawson was sergeant-at-arms. The fifteen other members of the club were: Edward Scullen, Henry Lambert, John Oehman, John Scott, Kenneth Rhinehart, Howard Trevillian, Robert Armstrong, Marshall Wills, Jack Rakestraw, Granville Brumbaugh, Gordon Sandefur, Emmett Crouch, Harry Newby, William Zeller, and Robert Erdman. Mr. Thompson was the club's adviser.

DE MOLAY DELTA SIGMA NU THETA DELTA TAU SIGMA TAU LAMBDA LAMBDA SIGMA DELTA

The Tech Crusaders were organized in November 1928 by active members in the school for the purpose of furthering fellowship among the students. The De Molay Club is recognized by the school, but it is sponsored by the Masonic organizations of the city. Of the twenty-eight members belonging to the club sixteen were alumni of Tech.

The officers of the club during the past year were: Alfred Boswell, Preceptor alumnus; Harry Klotz, Sub-Preceptor; Wallace Marshall, Recorder; Chevers Sithens, Treasurer, alumnus; Burke Wright, Public Relations. The student members were: Conrad Alberding, Boswell Clark, Sam Hamacher, Harry Klotz, Wallace Marshall, Raymond Reynolds, Isadore Shulman, Slaton Stephens, Henry Studts, Howard Trevillian, and Burke Wright.

Delta Sigma Nu Fraternity was founded in Ann Arbor, Michigan, in 1893. Alpha Epsilon Chapter was chartered at Tech on the ninth of November, 1912.

The officers of the fraternity were: Francis Crilley, President; Kenneth Frangioni, Vice President; Charles Kendall, Secretary; Michael Fabrizio, Treasurer; John Heflin, Goat Master; Bertrand France, Sergeant-at-Arms. The other members were: George Haje, Vincent Burgher, Graydon Parker, James Bond, John Campbell, Robert Jones, and William Vaught.

Mr. Olaf Saugstad was the adviser.

Theta Delta Tau, Tech chapter of Job's Daughters, was organized in 1933. It was the purpose of the girls to establish fellowship among Job's Daughters who are students at Tech.

The fall officers were: Marian Russell, President; Lucia Mitchell, Vice President; Josephine Stafford, Secretary; Doris Thompson, Treasurer; Ruth Mitchell, Sergeant-at-Arms; and Evelyn Frye, Historian. The spring officers were: Lucia Mitchell, President; Phoebe Wingfield, Vice President; Marian Wolford, Secretary; Doris Thompson, Treasurer; Ruth Tillman, Sergeant-at-Arms; Ruth Mitchell, Historian. The other members were: Harriet Davis, Catherine Eberly, Dorothy Ferguson, and Marie Schrodtt.

The faculty adviser is Mrs. Mitchell.

Sigma Tau Lambda Fraternity was founded at Central High School in 1926. Zeta Chapter at Tech was chartered in 1933.

The president was Donald Ludwig; vice president and treasurer were William Holcombe and James Tierney. John Mathers and Cogan Hammett were recording and corresponding secretaries, respectively. The sergeant-at-arms was Fred Egbers. The other members were Fred Hicks and Frank Holmead. James Miller was a pledge. Mr. Mitchell was the adviser for the fraternity.

Have you noticed the oddly-gotten-up girls who paraded the halls this year in lamp-shade millinery, horn-rimmed glasses, and assorted fingernail polishes? They were pledges for Lambda Sigma Delta.

The sorority was founded in 1920 at Central High School. Eta Chapter at Tech was chartered in 1932.

Joan Gray and Elizabeth Blumer were president and vice president respectively. The secretary and treasurer were Christine Binswanger and Mary Ziegler. The sergeant-at-arms, pledge mistress, and historian were Katherine Wheeler, Dorothy Bitting, and Audrey Canfield. The representatives to the Lambda Sigma Delta Council were Bettie Bissell and Erma Meegan. The sorority's pledges were: Alberta Cissell, Dorothy Cornelius, Dorothy Rider, Hazel Reck, and Elaine Vaughn.

The faculty adviser was Mrs. Edgerton.

The girls interested in athletics formed four volleyball teams. The girls joined their semester teams which played each other twice, taking a period of about six weeks. But before these games were played there were weeks of practice, twice a week after school, and thorough study of the rules. The results of these intramural games placed the sixth semester girls on top. The members of the winning team were: Helen Chumbris, Dolores Blankenship, Henrietta Elsberg, Jane Graham, Geraldine Thomas, Virginia Winchester, Vivian Yobst, Anna Hunt, and Louise Boccabella.

The members of the seventh semester team were: Cecilia Baardse, Audrey Higdon, Rosie Cuticchia, Bettie Bissell, Mary Shaw, Mary Sicoli, Helen Banks, Phoebe Wingfield, Helen Espey, Ernestine King, Joan Gray, Loretta McCusker, Thelma Nicol, and Mae Weyrich. The members of the fifth semester team were: Mary Zanelotti, Elizabeth Baltimore, Juliette Coulombe, Dorothy Downey, Margaret Bagdasian, Helen Freer, Anna Pace, Roselvn Poke, Mildred Trexler, and Elizabeth Daniels. The third and fourth semester team consisted of Helen Shives, Helen George, Edna Swan, Harriet Reid, Marjorie Aldridge, Christine Evans, Helen Reeves, Dorothy Ward, and Louise Pugliese.

Volley Ball

The major gym class was made up of members who were interested in a concentrated course in gymnastics and a better knowledge of rules and terms of popular sports and games. Its aim was to learn how to teach, referee, and play in a sportsman-like manner. After learning the rules of different games and how to apply them, the members were given written tests to see if they could apply their knowledge. Another way that the rules were applied was to divide the class into groups and let them compete against each other. This scheme was followed when basketball and spitball were in season. The best members even formed a team and played against other girls' teams around the city and in nearby communities.

When playing games the players found a need for grace, agility, and balance in motion. To acquire these qualities the girls took up rhythm. Different types of dancing came under this head. Some of these types that rhythm dealt with were tap, fancy, modern, and ballroom dancing. To insure a sense of balance the class studied what was called natural activities. In this study the girls learned a great number of interesting and amusing gymnastic stunts.

According to recent statistics physical activity contributes not only immediate pleasure but a lasting benefit in the development of personality. Among those activities contributing most to this development are two practised by the girls here, dancing and ping pong. In enjoying oneself one's companions are served and entertained. Tech girls are learning more, then, than games. They are learning how to play the game of life. Some of them hope to become directors of recreational centers or school gym classes. Those who become clerks and housewives will not have wasted their time in the major gym class for no greater achievement can be attained than a pleasing personality and the capacity to enjoy life.

This was the first year that a course in major gym work has been given. The girls were very enthusiastic about their work and the teachers spent a great deal of time and effort to make it a success.

CHEER LEADERS GIRLS' RIFLE CLUB BOYS' RIFLE TEAM

Cheer leaders raise the roof with cheers—rifle clubs with bangs and bullseyes. The Boys' Rifle Team is really a club of sharp-shooters. The Girls' Rifle Club is one of learners who shoot straight for the bullseye. Arm work is important to both the cheer leaders and rifle clubs—cheer motions and antics—handling ramrods, guns, and straps.

The cheer leaders are a very important factor in our school life. They are a part of the vivid picture at the inter-high games, the cadet competitions, and the "pep" assemblies. The members are chosen for their vivacity and vociferousness. Mr. Rippey was their faculty adviser. There were nine members this year: Fern Almquist, Larue Branham, Albert Carballo, George Harwood, Alfred Pinkham, Clara Santmeyer, Mary Shaw, Marie Stauber, Howard Trevillian.

The Girls' Rifle Club had a membership of forty-six girls. Each girl worked hard trying to attain the title of "sharp-shooter" by the end of the season. The club was captained by Allene Deitz; her assistant was Jean Wilson. The manager was Margaret Haetler, and the assistant manager was Jean March. The girls practised under the supervision of Mrs. Sims and Miss Overhulser. The members of the club were Pearl Arrow, May Babcock, Margaret Baer, Anna Bates, Mariam Boeglen, Dorothy Burchell, Alberta Cissell, Martha Lee Clair, Gene Connell, Juliette Coulombe, Frances Dougherty, Ann Filgate, Ruby Finch, Juanita Gorham, Helen Grivakos, Alice Haislip, Elizabeth Hammond, Vivienne Hollidge, Laura Jarvis, Mary Jeffreys, Joan Lohr, Ida Lewis, Helen Myers, Kathryn Payne, Jeanette Plowman, Peggy Prewith, Frances Rhodes, Dorothy Scrimger, Mary Charlotte Smith, Grace Valenti, and Alice Wood.

The Boys' Rifle Team is made up of students who are interested in shooting for both pleasure and training. This year the team was composed of ten good shots who practised twice a week on the range. Records of their work and progress were kept by Mr. Pigott and Mr. Benner, their faculty advisers, for reference and credit. Their captain was John Oehmann. The manager, who arranged the matches, was Charles Parker. The other members were Emmet Crouch, Roland Ford, Robert Lindbloom, John Neese, Maurice Petersen, Robert Rivello, William Schack, and James Welty.

Five members of the McKinlev team won places on the Brigade Rifle Team, the highest five of which shoot in the William Randolph Hearst trophy matches. Tech has won the inter-high championship for seven successive years. On going to press the 1938 team planned to win this trophy for the eighth year.

Schedule for the Tennis Team, Spring 1938:

Apr. 19—St. Albans, 3:00 P. M., at St. Albans
Apr. 23—Mercersburg, 1:00 P. M., at Mercersburg
Apr. 28—Wilson, 4:00 P. M., at Potomac Courts
May 3—Episcopal, 4:00 P. M., at Alexandria
May 4—Central, 4:00 P. M., at Potomac Courts
May 7—Maryland Frosh, 10:00 P. M., at College Park
May 11—Eastern, 4:00 P. M., at Potomac Courts
May 18—Western, 4:00 P. M., at Pierce Mill Courts
May 25—Roosevelt, 4:00 P. M., at Rock Creek Courts

The tennis team of 1938 was greatly weakened by graduation. However, a well balanced group remained, captained by Bill Zeller. The rest of the squad was made up of Don Lamore, Thomas Lawson, Henry Lambert, Charles Haynes, Robert Armstrong, William Emshwiller, Donald Brauner, Max Tryon, William Hake, Robert Bierly, Edward Villalon, Robert Logue, David Hoskins, Carey Singleton, and Lowell Keagy. From this squad a team had to be picked by Captain Zeller, Manager Beaumont, and Mr. Keyser, the faculty adviser. The team was to be picked from the results of challenge matches which were run off in March and April.

The golf team had a squad of eight members from which Mr. Sanders, the faculty adviser, picked a team. They were Billy Richardson, Walter Aters, W. W. Waller, Calvin Smith, Charles King, Eli Blank, Dick Burgess, and David Coleman. The play-off for the team was held in the early spring.

The team had no set schedule when this book went to press but there was to be a tournament between the metropolitan schools, which are the public high schools, the prep schools, and some of the nearby Maryland high schools.

The inter-high champion was to be picked from the showings the different public high schools made in the tournament. The Dawes Cup was to be awarded to this champion as has been done in former years.

F E N C I N G

The Fencing Club, newly organized the past semester, was formed as the result of an order of Mr. Vliet's. When Mr. Vliet found two of the present members fencing in the cafeteria patio without other equipment but foils, he told them that they should not fence without the proper protection. This admonition was the nucleus of an idea, and, in no time, the Fencing Club began to flourish. The club was an outgrowth of the cadets, but anyone may join. Major William E. Barkman was the faculty adviser, and Don Alfrero of the Washington Fencing Club was their instructor.

The members of the club have furnished, and, in some cases, made their own equipment. The requisites for fencing being a body protector, a foil and a mask. The officers of the club were: Max Goldberg, President; Angus MacDonald, Vice President; Charles Wilding, Secretary-Treasurer; and Louis Figliozzi, Sergeant-at-Arms.

The members were M. Weiss, J. Moore, B. Floam, E. Brincefield, B. Sherrill, L. Parezo, K. Rhine, E. Robinson, F. Fickinger, M. Williams, J. Curtin, T. Vial, L. Cadem, S. Cosimano, C. Rader, and M. Buck.

THE YOUTH ● THE TROPHIES ● THE CHALLENGE

A typical gym period runs as follows: eight minutes to get in gym suits; three minutes to take attendance; twenty-two minutes of athletic activity; and twelve minutes to get a shower and dress.

The classes are, as far as possible, made up of boys of the same semester. They are divided into squads, getting boys of the same height, physique, and athletic ability together if possible. There is a leader for each squad and a captain for the whole class who helps the instructor.

Seasonal sports are practiced and played throughout the year. In the fall, September to December, touch football is played after the fundamentals have been taught. From December to February, the fundamentals of basketball and some group games are taught to the classes. The February-March period, is devoted to volley ball, handball, and indoor baseball, as much as the size of the group permits. In April and May the basic principles of track and field events are practiced by the squads. Late May and all of June is devoted to softball.

A physical examination is given to as many boys as possible in addition to the physical training instructor's observations of the boy while he is playing.

Also textbook work and lectures are used to teach the classes the effects of tobacco, alcohol, and narcotics.

In addition to the regular gym program an intramural athletic schedule is carried on. Inter-sectional basketball, intramural track, inter-sectional softball, and volley ball are the sports planned for this program.

PHYSICAL STRENGTH ... AND AGILITY

FOOTBALL

The inter-high series from a Tech standpoint was one bad break after another, beginning with the ineligibility of Ivy Belote at the start of the season and culminating in a blocked kick in the Eastern game at the end of the season. In between came injuries to Harold Welch, star center, who sustained a broken wrist, and to John Gilmore, an able half-back, who was injured toward the end of the season. Outranking the rest of the players by far as an individual star was Tech's great quarter-back, Jack Belote, who passed, kicked, and ran his way onto the first team of the all-high squad. Following him in importance to the squad came Walter Connolly, gluey-fingered end, and Henry Rassier, a powerful full-back. These three, plus Jack Fleishman, giant tackle, were the backbone of the Tech defence and offence. Here it would be well to say a word about the boys who never saw action in an inter-high game, but who will be the Tech first team of next year, the third and fourth team players. These boys reported to practice every day along with the first team, and served as glorified tackling dummies so that the first team might profit from the practice. They memorized the opposition's plays and formations, and patiently ran through them again and again while the first team studied a defence of the tactics. To these boys who shared all the hard knocks and injuries equally with the first team, but who shared none of the praise and glory, should be given the recognition of a job well done, that of helping to make the Tech team of last year.

*Best wishes
William Miller*

Tech worried through last season with a team sadly weakened by the new age limit rule and by graduation. "Rusty" Thompson with the able assistance of Mr. Koehl and Artie Wondrack built up a fair team around an all-high quarter-back, Jack Belote; Jack Fleishman, an experienced tackle; Walter Connolly, a pass-snatching end; and Henry Rassier, a hard-running full-back. The back-field was filled out with Freddie Bach, a good running back; and Harold Berry, a fine blocking back. Charlie Callas and Ivy Belote, the only other experienced men in the line, played at the guard positions, with the other positions filled by Bill Miller, center; Don Schlauch, tackle; and Milton Bittenbender, end; all playing their first season as regulars.

The members of the third team were: De Leon, Sliney, Carre, Brown, Davis, Koons, Speet, Winfield, Cockrille, Swarr, and Miller.

The fourth team was: Kemper, Sliney, McConkey, Carhart, Harrison, Flax, Catucci, Tearny, Yobst, Amerie, and McCammon.

Opening a disappointing season from the standpoint of many Techites, Tech lost a close game, 6 to 0, to the Maury High Commodores at Norfolk, Virginia. The sting of the defeat was doubled by the loss of Harold Welch, star center, who sustained a broken wrist in the game. Next in succession Tech was soundly trounced by Episcopal High, 18 to 0, and then by Gonzaga, 20 to 0. However, Tech got going at the beginning of the inter-high series, and defeated Western, Woodrow Wilson, and Roosevelt by the respective scores of 21 to 12, 30 to 0, and 20 to 6. Then, in the hardest fought battle in the series, Tech was nosed out by Eastern, 7 to 6. This game was featured by Belote's 80 yard run. In the concluding game of the season a discouraged Tech team was beaten by an aroused Central outfit, 13 to 7. The season was featured throughout by the brilliant running and passing of Jack Belote and the hard plunging of Henry Rassier.

B A S K E T B A L L

A new coach, a new team, and a new chance to win, Tech had all of these at the start of the 1938 basketball season. The new coach, Mr. Bruce Kessler, worked wonders with a green team, which, although it did not win the series, acquitted itself well on the court. Mr. Kessler had little enough material with which to build the team, having only one regular back from last year. However, Vic De Leon, Lowell Keagy, and Walter Connolly were outstanding during the season, as were Merrill Heddings and John Heatwole. The team was weakened by the inability of some of its stars to play on Friday night, and by the graduation of Heddings and Connolly in February. Most of the players were so evenly matched in ability that Mr. Kessler was unable to choose a regular team, using the above mentioned players plus Eli Blank, Sam Gendleman, Cogan Hammett, Leroy Curtis, Morton Tannebaum, Morton Littman and Francis Parry with equal frequency. Among those left for next year are Morton Tannebaum, A. Southcombe, J. Coombes and M. Delinger.

Tech, through no fault of Coach Kessler, had a very disappointing season from a statistical standpoint. The team, besides placing only fourth in the inter-high series, lost all but six of the sixteen games they played. However, we have much to look forward to next year, as practically all of the regulars will be back. Perhaps the brightest spot in the series was Tech's twin defeats of Central by the scores of 33-23 and 27-22. These, plus two defeats of Wilson, 17-11 and 34-28, and a win over Western, 25-21, comprised Tech's only victories in the series. On the debit side Tech was soundly trounced by Eastern twice, 21-12 and 44-13, by Roosevelt twice, 32-24 and 26-15, and by Western once, 31-22.

TRACK

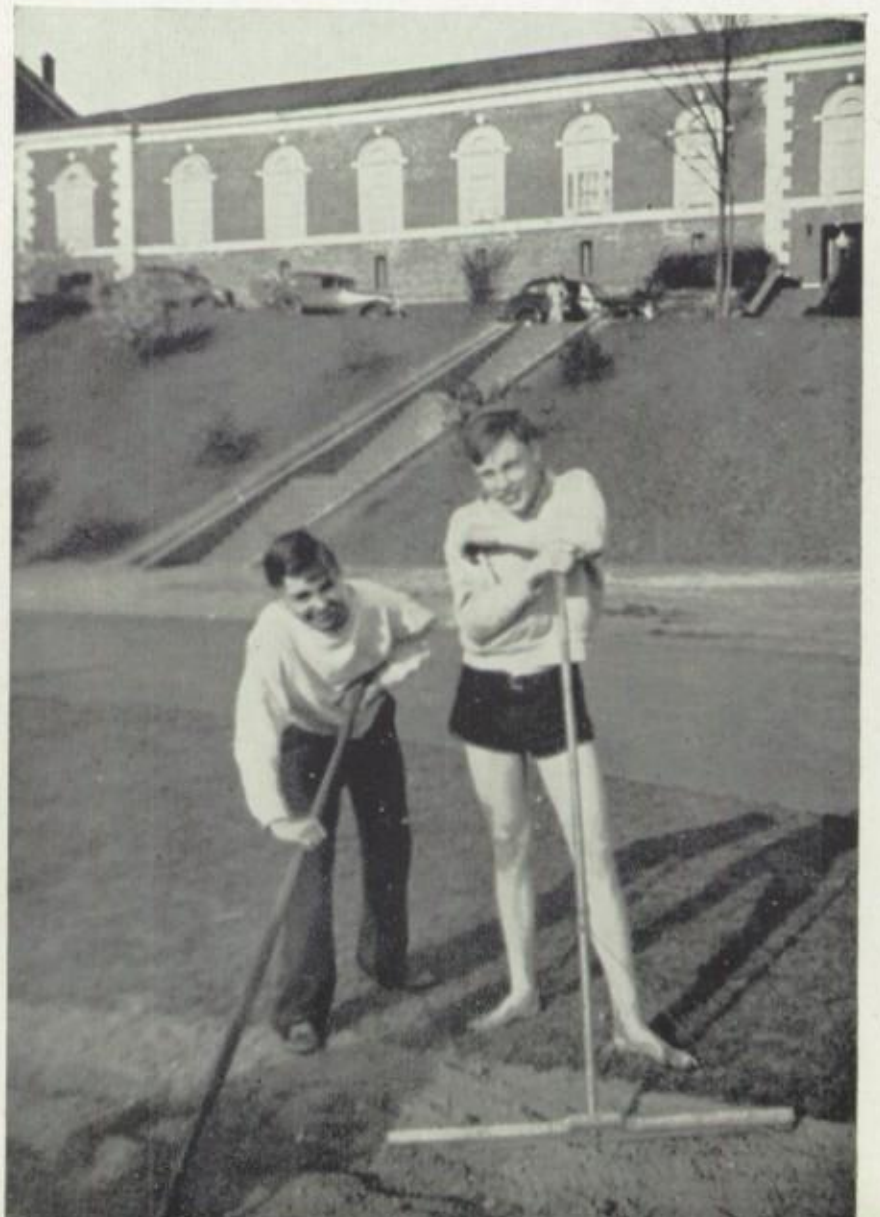

Perhaps the most gruelling, and yet the most truly athletic sport at Tech, is the one which each spring draws many hopefuls to try to earn their spurs on the cinder path, in the jumping pit, and in the other field events. Tech this year will have a team of veterans with a sprinkling of new faces in the running events. "Rusty" Thompson, the coach of the football team, will put the squad through its paces, assisted by Elvin Brincefield, student manager. Track, in addition to being a general conditioning sport, is especially helpful to the members of the football team, many of whom are track stars also. Among the veterans back from last year are Norman Baulsir, broad jumper and javelin thrower; Jack Fleishman, discus thrower and shot putter; John Gilmore and Sam Hamacher, high jumpers; Freddie Bach and Bill Holbrook, pole vaulters; William Miller and Frank Swarr, milers; Ivy Belote, discus hurler; Bill Smith and John Scott, sprinters; and Buddy Hildebrand and Paul Dean, hurdlers. The team will be built around these men with the addition of several promising newcomers. In the first meet of the year with competition among some thirty schools Tech failed to place high, but the work of Hamacher and Gilmore who placed first and fourth in the high jump was encouraging to Tech fans. Before entering into the outdoor meets in competition with other Washington high schools the squad will engage in indoor meets in Baltimore, and at Catholic University, in order to be in the pink of form later in the season. On going to press Tech's track schedule had just begun.

In its opening game of the season Tech defeated a surprisingly strong Woodrow Wilson team by the score of 11-10, in what was by far the most thrilling game of the inter-high series. The "never-say-die" attitude, which enabled this team to overcome a six-run handicap and go on to win, was prevalent throughout the series. In the next game Tech had an off day and was defeated by Eastern by the score of 5-0; but, they bounced right back to beat Roosevelt, Central and Western in succession, with little Tommy Doonis and Joe Ciomei carrying the burden. Other stalwarts on the team which captured second place in the inter-high series were, Nippy Wise, Captain; LeRoy Curtis, Charley Kendall, Jack Gordon, Roy Lemerise, Walt Merchant, Abe Fillah and Buddy Webb.

The Military Committee Works Hard

Another year! Another regiment! Another military committee! The members: Miss Louise G. Hart, Chairman; Major William E. Barkman, Military Instructor; Miss Louise Kingsley; and Mr. Elmer H. Krehbiel. True friends of all cadets, they have persevered through the years of disappointment and are striving to lick old man jinx.

September 1937, brought a new military instructor to replace Lieutenant Benner. The Second Regiment was off to a fresh start with the formation of four full companies, and in February it was increased to five by the addition of "E" Company. Mr. Malkus filled the position vacated by Mr. D. Walten and the band made rapid progress under his guidance. Officers and men alike mean to bring home the bacon.

The cadet newspaper, "The Tekadet," reappeared for the second year, edited by Lieutenant Colonel Richard Weiss. The Saber and Chevrons clubs worked toward a better regimental organization in addition to the usual social activities. The former sponsored moving pictures of the regiment passing in review. The annual spring competitions, yet to come at this writing, will see a new and much improved Tech regiment.

Chevrons are used to distinguish non-commissioned officers. They are the same in design as those formerly used in the regular army, and are worn on the outer half of both sleeves, points up, midway between the elbow and the top of the sleeve. Those worn by members of the Brigade Staff are gold, and all other infantry non-commissioned officers wear chevrons of light blue. Band non-commissioned officers are indicated by bright red chevrons.

The length of service of a man in the Cadet Corps is shown by narrow bands on the sleeve below the elbow. Stripes are worn on the outer half of both sleeves, at an angle of 45 degrees. Each additional year another stripe is added above and parallel to the first, with one-eighth inch space between stripes, the space being formed of the background. These stripes are gold for commissioned officers and the non-commissioned officers of the Brigade Staff. The enlisted men wear light blue stripes.

Whitener, W. E.

The insignia for cadets who win a place in the Company Competitive Drill is a diamond worn on the right sleeve touching the shoulder, the color—red, purple, or white—indicating the order of merit. The cadets whose battalion places in the Battalion Competitive Drill, are entitled to wear a star pinned on the left cuff. Cadets whose regiment places wear a diamond pinned on the left cuff. Gold, silver, and bronze denote first, second, and third respectively. Members of the winning band in the Band Competition wear a red cloth star.

We'll sing a song to help along
Our company, our cause;
We're man to man a fighting clan,
So cheer boys while we pause
 Rah! Rah! Rah!
Up the field in perfect time,
A victory or die;
Can't you hear them cheer our style, boys,
As "D" goes marching by?
 Rah! Rah!

COMPETITION FOR CO-ORDINATION OF THOUGHT AND ACTION

...AND BOWLING FOR RECREATION

Enough junior high school graduates joined the Second Regiment on entering Tech February 1, to form a four-squad "rookie" company, later named "E" Company. This necessitated several changes among the officers and non-coms. The officers to command the new unit were appointed by Major W. E. Barkman as follows: Captain Walter Burns was transferred from his post as Regimental Personnel Adjutant to command the company; Lieutenant John Curtain vacated the position of training platoon commander to become first lieutenant; and Creighton DeMarr, former first sergeant of "B" Company, was made commander of the second platoon in the capacity of second lieutenant. This latest addition of a fifth company to the regiment was annexed as a third company to the Second Battalion. This is the first time since 1935-1936 that Tech's corps has been over four companies in strength.

The following are the capable non-commissioned officers of "E" Company: E. L. Jenkins, top sergeant; H. R. Wilkerson, quartermaster sergeant; A. H. Beard, R. A. Ebner, J. W. Moore, and W. S. Frank, guides; and S. G. Brown, H. R. Haar, R. M. Osyer, and H. W. Hickman, corporals. Both officers and men showed extreme interest in the welfare of the unit and Wednesday drills were held during February and March so that the men could master the fundamentals of military drill.

The privates who worked so hard to perfect the company in time for the drill in May are: T. Alderson, G. J. Allen, N. H. Bass, G. E. Beale, J. Bennett, J. M. Berry, J. H. Bowen, J. S. Branen, W. Bricker, J. Brown, B. Buckingham, L. E. Cadam, N. D. Chew, C. Doneff, E. M. Dorland, K. Downs, C. D. Fortner, F. Gerardi, R. A. Hart, R. A. Hense, G. E. Irons, E. Jones, D. G. Kennedy, H. L. Keough, R. L. Lester, J. McKluskey, C. B. Strother, R. N. Vidgerhouse, J. Wilkins, and D. Zarren.

Recalling Good Times

Here they are, the winners' the people's choice in the 1938 popularity contest! They are your fellow students. You voted for them. Why? Because they are versatile, or attractive, or they excel in sports or in the classroom. They appear on the following pages as the outstanding members of their class.

Bill

By her knowledge and general intelligence Mary seems to have made quite an impression on her fellow-Techites who elected her best girl scholar of her class.

William Zeller has had a most outstanding record as a brilliant and industrious scholar. He is worthy of the title of best boy scholar.

Summa Cum Laude

A walking book of knowledge, full of facts and intellectual matter, Fustfeld.

Very learned, attentive in class, and prepared at all times to answer, a very industrious scholar, June Darling.

Superlatives

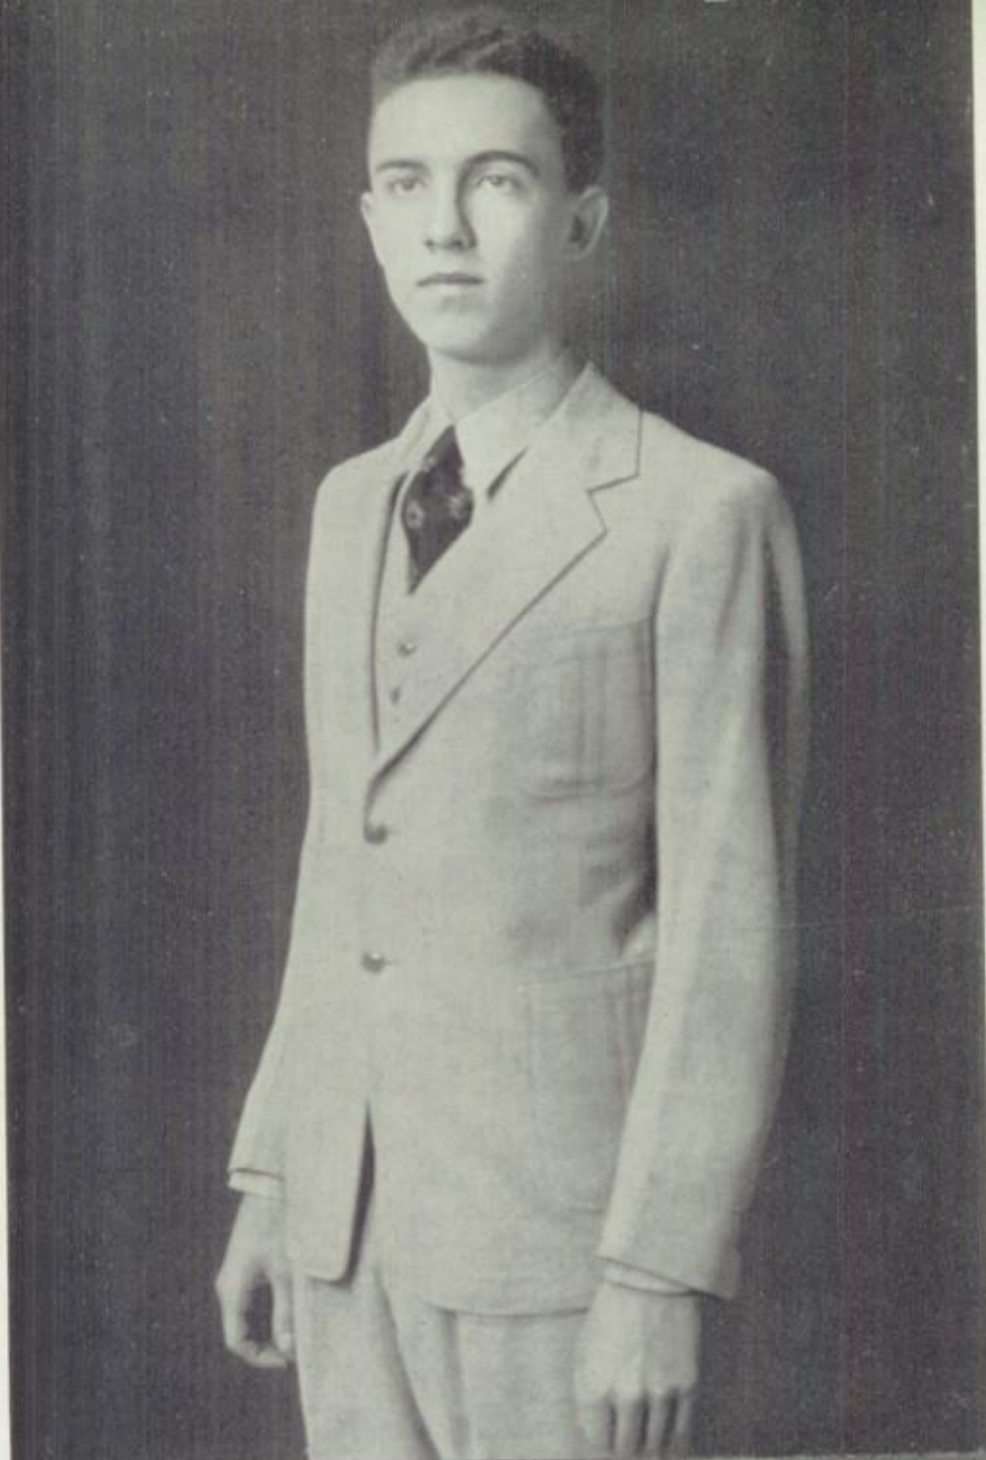

Being unselfish is one of the biggest steps toward good citizenship. We feel that Madeline is certainly one of the best citizens in the class of 1938.

Mariam chooses her clothes with good taste and wears them with a grace that befits their beauty.

A ready smile and a pleasing personality make Bernice beautiful in the true sense of the word.

Adolescent of the Always for Miss

Tip Top

Bill

Consideration and a willingness to help others, good citizenship and unselfishness, characteristics of Billy Zeller.

Full of pep and interest in the things around him—George Filgate, best all-round boy.

*Happiness!
Bill Holbrook*

*"Love"
Ivy Belote*

Kendall's quiet personality, excellence in sports, studies, and other school activities make him very popular.

Quickness and attentiveness to directions, Bill Holbrook, a leader in athletics.

Physical strength and will power are characteristics of Ivy Belote who heads his class in athletic honors.

To The nth Degree

Paul Sheldon

Lovely hair, sparkling smile, and a powder-blue dress. Frances is ready for a morning in town.

A broad smile, a twinkle in the eye, and carefree informality mark Paul Shelton.

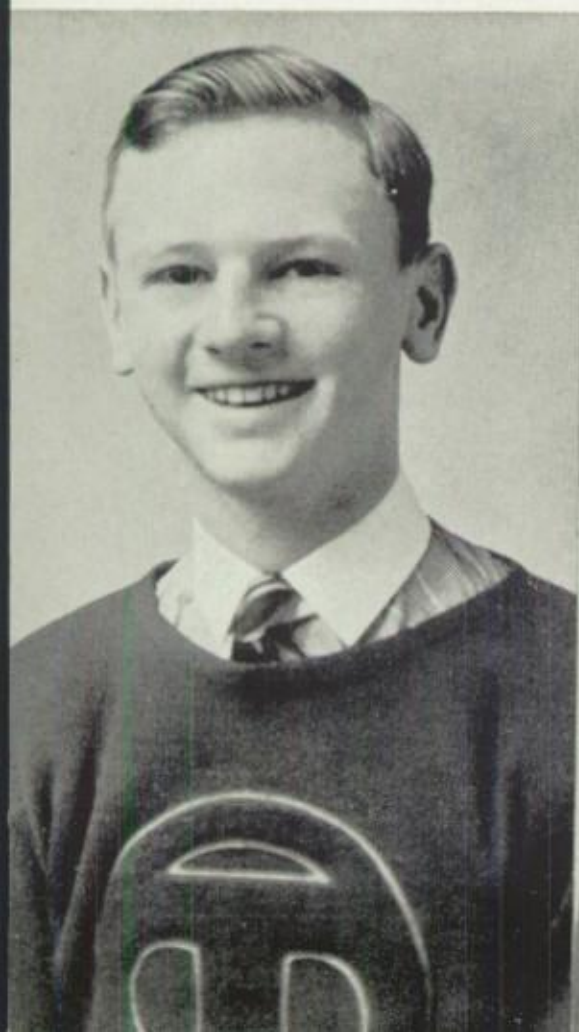

An evening veil crowned in gardenias, a white georgette evening dress with rhinestone trim, lovely Frances Kidwell.

With his fair play and lightning speed it is no wonder that Kendall excels in basketball.

Power and correct timing of movement make Fleishman great on the football field.

Tragedy, comedy, love, and hate are portrayed by this best of actors, William Zeller.

Perfect posture and bearing in his uniform, Cecchini excels among the cadets.

The TECHITE staff is grateful to the students of Tech for their loyal support. Each subscription made possible additional pages and better material in this year book. To each student who subscribed, then, thanks are due, and special thanks are extended to Margaret Bagdassian, Margaret Baer, Jean Hayden, Betty Jones, Frances Kidwell, and Dorothy Mennen, all of whom succeeded in selling their quotas of year books to their sections. They will receive a free TECHITE as their reward.
